SANTA BARBARA QUAKE TOLL GROWS

Diver Locates Treasure Ship

New York Expedition Successful in Discovering the Resting Place of Merida, Sunk Fourteen Years Ago.

Will Hoist Gold Up In One-Ton Baskets

Vessel to Be Rifled of $4,000,000 Cargo During the Next 15 Days, Salvagers Plan—Expect Huge Profit

By BRADLEY KELLY
Special Correspondent of The Colonist and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

ABOARD SALVAGE STEAMER SPRAY, by Courier to Norfolk, Va., June 28.—The steamer Merida, sunk in collision fourteen years ago with a $4,000,000 cargo of gold and silver bullion in her strong room, was located Saturday by the salvage expedition organized a few months ago by a group of New York sportsmen.

The ship lies at a depth of 213 feet. It has a slight list to starboard, but is in a good state of preservation.

Ton Pokes of Gold

Salvaging of the treasure will begin next week and will require about fifteen days. A large hole will be cut in the side of the ship alongside the strong room, and the door of the latter will be dynamited. Its contents will be then be brought to the surface in great wicker baskets holding one ton each. The total weight of the treasure is about thirty tons.

Search for the ship began on June 8. Two weeks were spent in sweeping the ocean floor by means of a mile-long drag or cable. After more than 750 miles of sweeping, the cable caught on some object so solid that the one-inch steel wire was cut in two.

Repairs were made the next day and the sweep resumed in the same place. Again the cable caught and again it was sawed in two.

Third Attempt Succeeds

On the third attempt the cable held and was kept in position between the two salvage ships, while preparations began to send down a diver. For a few days the weather was too rough to permit deep-sea diving, but Saturday the storm cleared away and Diver Fred Neilson, of Brooklyn, made the initial descent. In steel helmet and reinforced diving suit, under an air pressure of 105 pounds to the square inch, he dropped overboard, sinking straight down 35½ fathoms to the ocean floor.

Neilson remained on the bottom for fifteen minutes.

Satisfied Have Right Ship

"I made a complete survey of the superstructure of the ship," he said, on coming up. "I quickly satisfied myself that she was really the Merida by her size, rigging, and by various objects bearing the ship's name."

The syndicate of twenty New Yorkers who are financing the treasure hunt will realize a profit of more than 10,000 per cent on their investment if the salvage operations are brought to a successful conclusion next month. Members of the syndicate plan to join their salvage boats at the scene of the operations as soon as hoisting of the treasure is commenced. They include J. A. is commenced.

Two Italian Stormy Petrels Reconcile Old Differences

Premier Mussolini, who rarely smiles, seems quite pleased with Gabriele d'Annunzio, poet-soldier of Italy and Fiume, on the latter's motor boat on Lake Garda, where the two leading fights of Italy indulged in a love feast which apparently healed all past differences. The poet is wearing his aviation coat and revolver, and is relating to the Premier a war incident, at the same time illustrating his point with the machine gun mounted on the boat.

First Visit of Governor-General Here Is to Old Comrades-in-Arms

Baron and Lady Byng Arrive for Four Days' Visit—His Excellency Will Address Canadian Club at Noon Luncheon Today—Viceregal Party to View Parade

Commencing their four days' official visit to this city, Their Excellencies Baron Byng of Vimy and Lady Byng arrived from Vancouver by the afternoon boat. Arrangements are that Their Excellencies will stay at Government House until Thursday night, when they will leave for Vancouver.

Baron and Lady Byng were met at the C. P. R. wharf by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Walter C. Nichol and Mrs. Nichol, and, accompanied by Major Hodgson, aide-de-camp, and Mr. H. J. S. Muskett, private secretary to the Lieutenant-Governor, were driven direct to Government House through the streets, gay with many-colored flags, standards and bunting with which Victoria is attired for the Crystal Garden festival now proceeding. The Governor-General appeared to be in excellent health and enjoying his visit to the capital of the Province.

The first visit paid by the former corps commander of the Canadian forces in France was to his old comrades-in-arms. At 4 o'clock, accompanied by the Lieutenant-Governor, he arrived at the club of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, where ex-service men in "civvies," but wearing their army buttons, were drawn up outside the quarters. His Excellency passed along the line, making inquiries of the men as to their old battalions and services. Afterwards he addressed them in the club.

Regimental Spirit Commended

If Canada as a whole, he said, could keep the regimental spirit which existed during the Great War, what a wonderful thing it would be for the Dominion at the present time! That regimental spirit, he added, was one for good in time of war, and was also a spirit for good today.

While His Excellency was engaged with the veterans, Lady Byng offi-

Court Dismisses Election Hearing

Proceedings Seeking to Unseat North Vancouver Member Declared Irregular

VANCOUVER, June 29.—Hearing of the application for appointment of a commission to investigate alleged irregularities in the provincial election in North Vancouver, and the proceedings seeking the unseating of J. M. Bryan, who was elected member for the constituency, terminated suddenly at noon when Mr. Justice Murphy dismissed the application on the grounds that the proceedings were irregular. He added that had this been pointed out when the application was first before him in Victoria, matters would have terminated in that instance.

Great Central Lake Sawmills Begin Building

Plant Will Give Employment to Over 100 Hands in Enlarged Capacity as Now Planned.

Location Rumor Denied

Lumber will be shipped into the Great Central Lake townsite this week for the plant of the Great Central Lake Sawmills Limited, which is establishing a plant on the Boot Lagoon to cut the extensive limits acquired from the land department of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway some time ago, and for the purpose of which the railway conditioned its branch line into the lake district.

This announcement of actual building operations confirms a statement made to The Colonist last week by principals in the proprietary company. They were asked the truth of the rumor current in Port Alberni for several weeks that the company intended to cut at the lake, but to have its mill at tidewater on the canal. In response a specific denial was given to this newspaper, it being stated that the mill would be placed at the lagoon, and the original plans for a townsite would be proceeded with at Great Central Lake.

Increased Output

Announcement was made at the same time that the original plan for a 75,000 feet capacity cut, afterwards enlarged to 100,000 feet, had been enlarged. It had been found that economy of overhead cost would permit the increased output for a small increase in cost on the smaller plant, and it is expected the new mill will employ from 100 to 125 persons. Purchase has already been made of a large quantity of machinery, which will be forwarded to the lake at intervals for erection. The company intends to press construction, now that its spur to the branch line of the railway has been completed.

In connection with this development, which will be the joint effort of the King-Farris Lumber Company and the Bloedel, Stewart & Welch interests, Mr. Bloedel, who is largely interested in logging near Union Bay, and has acquired extensive limits in the Campbell River district, is the president of the Bloedel-Donovan Lumber Company, and is one of the leading lumber men of the Coast.

Crowds Applaud As Turks Hang 22 Kurd Rebels

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 29.—Sheik Said and twenty-one other Kurds, recently convicted of participating in the Kurdish insurrection, were hanged today in the public square at Diarbekir. Said was the principal leader of the insurrection.

Advices reaching here from Diarbekir say that a large crowd applauded while the executions were taking place and that numerous volunteers aided in adjusting and pulling the gallows ropes.

The men executed were tried by court-martial. Fifteen other Kurds were acquitted.

Anxious Friends Await News of Stricken City

Santa Barbara Is Centred on Main Street, Which Suffered Most From Vibrations.

Record Made at Gonzales

Owing to the close relation between Victoria and Southern California, due to the large migration of Victorians three or four years ago, and the fact that a large number of British Columbians are touring in the Golden State, there was a lively interest shown yesterday in the news from Santa Barbara, centre of the earthquake zone, where the early morning tremors did so much damage.

Santa Barbara is almost exclusively residential, its 20,000 inhabitants being many of them retired easterners who have homes on the terraces which rise about the seafront. The chief business street, State, where the bulk of the damage has been done, runs to the sea straight from the Arlington Hotel, which suffered considerably in the tremors. The telegrams report that the street is filled with debris from the wreckage caused by the turbulent oscillations.

Mr. F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Gonzales Observatory, reports that the record on the seismological instruments at the Gonzales Observatory commenced at 6:46 a.m. and the maximum wave was recorded six minutes later. Vibration due to the seismic disturbance continued perceptible for three hours. The indications were of a very marked character, and the vibrations occurring in an urban area in a part of the Pacific Coast within the line of weakness for seismic unrest, which is known to exist, some loss of life and a large property loss was inevitable, Mr. Denison thinks.

Santa Barbara residents visiting here say the city occasionally experiences earthquake tremors, but not for many years has there been an outbreak sufficient to cause the destruction of buildings such as was reported yesterday.

Crop Prospects Good Throughout Prairies

WINNIPEG, June 29.—Crops in Western Canada continue to show the most promising prospects in many years, and throughout the wheat belt growing conditions have been uniformly good, according to the Canadian National Railway crop report issued today. Wheat generally is in shot blade, and in parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan has reached the height of 24 inches.

French Prepare To Leave Ruhr

Territory to Be Evacuated by August 15—Paris Fulfilling Promise

PARIS, June 29.—The French army of the Rhine today began preliminary preparations for the French evacuation of the Ruhr which the Painleve Government recently announced would be completed by August 15. This is in fulfillment of the promise made by the Herriot Government that France would evacuate the Ruhr within a year after the Dawes plan became effective. The preparations consist of the removal of material to bases in the rear and along the line of communication.

An official announcement June 23 said the French would evacuate the Ruhr territory to the line of Oberhausen, Mulheim and Kettwig, meaning the evacuation of Essen.

City to Conduct Big Auction of Lands in August

Several Hundred Lots Will Be Put Up for Sale—Mr. C. S. Austin Will Officiate at Auction of Properties

Follow Oak Bay's Example

An auction sale of a limited number of lots of city tax sale property will be held this Summer as a result of the city Council's action last night in adopting the recommendation of the City's Land Committee, under the chairmanship of Alderman Dewar. The auction will be held in Victoria during the last two weeks of August.

Inquiry by Alderman Marchant as to what was meant by the words a "limited number of lots," which was contained in the Land Committee's report, brought forth the comment from Alderman Todd that "while it has not been definitely decided as to how many lots will be put up for auction, it will be several hundred."

That the sale will likely be conducted by Mr. Charles S. Austin, of the Charles S. Austin Company, realty auctioneers, was the statement made to The Colonist last night, by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar, Lands Committee head. Mr. Austin will visit Victoria during the latter part of the week, probably on Friday, and the Lands Committee will then confer with him concerning the forthcoming auction sale, and make arrangements therefor.

The City Lands Committee is encouraged by the success of the auction sale in Oak Bay, which was recently conducted for the Oak Bay Lands, Limited, by Mr. Charles S. Austin, who sold for the company 106 parcels of vacant property in the municipality, the aggregate purchase price being $38,100. The committee believes that the city could succeed in getting a number of its tax sale property into the hands of individual owners through an auction sale.

"The city hopes to sell some improved and unimproved property, and choice vacant lots suitable for residential purposes," said Alderman Dewar. "The reason for the sale being in August is because we hope to sell lands to outside buyers, and think that a large number of tourists will be passing through the city at that time."

Mrs. Burd Dies

VANCOUVER, June 29.—Word was received in Vancouver this afternoon of the death in Montreal of Mrs. M. J. Burd, mother of Frank J. Burd, managing director of The Vancouver Daily Province, and of Major Richard Burde, M.P.P., Alberni. Death was due to apoplexy.

Second Ursus Seen! Good Heavens, What if They Had Captured Him!

PRINCE RUPERT, June 29.—A fine specimen of white bear, known scientifically as Ursus Kermodei, was seen a few days ago on Princess Royal Island by Elmer Palahom and Assistant Forest Ranger Scott.

They had anchored in a bay while preparing a meal before returning to Surf Inlet, where Palahom is engaged with J. R. Morgan & Co., and were quite near the shore, when they saw the little bear playing on the beach.

They had guns, but did not shoot, as the bear seemed too friendly to engage in hostilities. They went ashore, and getting quite close, watched him for a short time.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 30.—A violent earthquake shock struck this city at 1:22 o'clock this morning. This was the heaviest shock since the heavy temblor of yesterday morning.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 29.—Another heavy earthquake shock was felt here at 5:32 p.m.

Still another temblor shook the city at 6:46 o'clock this evening, and wrecking crews in partly mined buildings stood clear for several moments until the vibrations had ceased. No fresh damage was done.

Another severe tremor was felt at 7:12 p.m.

Following is the list of known dead in this morning's catastrophe: Mrs. Charles E. Perkins, Burlington, Iowa; Patrick Shea; Bertram Hancock, Los Angeles; Dr. James Angle; J. Mostiero; Demitrias Saintor; James Starvow; William Matthews; H. Hazzard; three unidentified, two of whom are Mexicans.

Premier Plans Aid For British Movies

LONDON, June 29.—During today's House of Commons discussion of the trade depression and unemployment situation, Premier Stanley Baldwin said he thought the time had arrived, in the national interests, to inquire into the possibility of providing that a majority of the moving picture films exhibited in Great Britain should be of British make.

He also invited the House to consider if it would be feasible to subsidize the British industries now suffering most from unemployment.

Santa Barbara Fast Recovers As Dust Settles

California Quake Most Orderly Catastrophe in History—No Frenzy, Little Excitement—Work Starts

Rebuilding Has Started

SANTA BARBARA, June 29.—This city by the sea, which early today staggered under the blows of a rending earthquake, tonight surveyed its great losses and began fighting again.

Bluejackets of the naval, militia and national guardsmen patrolled the heart of the business district, but at no time has there been the least sign of disorders.

No frenzy, no rushing about marked this disaster. The dead were collected as quickly as possible, upwards of a dozen bodies.

Close to a score of injured were cared for, and even as the ambulances moved off to the ships, there followed in their wake trucks loaded with twisted steel. The work of cleaning up had begun.

Not all business buildings were demolished, but all had suffered damage and many were twisted and smashed beyond repair.

All Right on One Side

The San Marcos, a stately four-story class A structure of the newest type, just completed, occupied principally by professional men, seemed from the southern and eastern ends of its "L" to be untouched, but its other elevations lay flat.

The Santa Barbara Mission, which fell in an earthquake during the early eighties, again was partly wrecked today. Its pair of towers are masses of crumpled debris.

The telephone company's building has all four walls still standing by virtue of half a score of props made from telephone poles.

Hotel Is Wrecked

Inside the Arlington, a hostelry known to the travelers of two hemispheres, a picture of absolute destruction presents itself. The centre dome crashed with the first temblor, carrying with it rooms in both diverging wings. The remainder of the building is ripped and torn in a number of places. Manager Richmond says it is a complete loss.

One newspaper, The News, is homeless, its city desk and editorial staff functioning from the Civic Square and its issues coming from the press of a sister publication at Venturia, twenty-eight miles distant.

The morning paper, The Press, has its plant intact, but lacks the power to turn its wheels.

Rebuilding Begun

SANTA BARBARA, June 29.—A series of earthquakes, described by survivors as rocking and swaying the business centre of Santa Barbara as if it were on a turbulent ocean, early today left the principal structures of the Channel City a mass of debris and ruins. The loss of life was not large, due to the tremor occurring at 6:44 o'clock in the morning, and also that the mass of ruins fell in the second earthquake some minutes after the first tremor.

Estimates of the loss vary from $3,000,000, a "conservative" figure by the city manager, to $30,000,000, a figure quoted by the city engineer. Indications are that twelve lives were lost, although this rests upon the recovery of several bodies assumed to be in the ruins.

Buried in Hotel Ruins

Mrs. Charles E. Perkins, widow of the late railway wizard, former president of the C. B. & Q. Railway, was declared to be buried in the ruins of a section of the Arlington Hotel. Manager A. L. Richmond said that he did not have the slightest hope that she escaped, and debris was being removed to uncover the body. Manager Richmond also believed B. B. Hancock, of Los Angeles, was killed, his room having been above Mrs. Perkins' and demolished also.

State Street, the main thoroughfare, is a ghastly avenue of ruin, portions of its most stately buildings having tumbled down, with cornices, walls, and fronts of practically all the principal structures shattered.

'Quakes Continue

The earthquakes continued throughout the day. They menaced the water supply by crashing out the dam of Sheffield reservoir, but a by-pass has been established to a main reservoir back in the hills and water provided for the city.

The terror-stricken 30,000 inhabitants in most cases settled down to an emergency existence by noon, many of them living on the lawns.

Like Storm at Sea

"I have been through fifty earthquakes, but never one like this before," said Manager Richmond, of the Arlington Hotel.

"It just took the hotel that we thought a fortress and shook it back and forth as if it was a rag.

"It was precisely as if one were at sea in a storm. One would not believe it were possible for a building to move with such force in so many directions and apparently so limply as did the Arlington.

"The hotel is a total loss."

Other stories of the motion of the earthquake were similar.

Shock Knocks Men Down

"The twisting of the earth was like a violent storm at sea," said Harry Afford, janitor at The Daily News. He was one of the comparatively few men in the downtown district when the earth began its shivering.

"The first shock shook The News building like a little ship in a big storm. It knocked several of us down. There was nothing to do, it was just a question of getting up and holding on. Then came the second shock.

Black Warriors Amuse Prince

Ludicrous Uniforms or Warlike Natives of Bechuanaland Test His Royal Highness' Facial Control

Had Photograph Taken

PALAPE, Bechuanaland, South Africa, June 29.—The gravity of countenance which the Prince of Wales must assume on formal occasions was seriously tested during a review of native Bechua warriors yesterday at Zworo.

The natives appeared in the most outlandish costumes, proudly parading their cherished garments regardless of the general effect.

Some wore discarded London police helmets, while others sported tartan kilts. The prize turnout was that of a chief who appeared in a British Hussar busby, the mess jacket of an officer of the British Footguards, and golf knickers of plus four cut. The Prince had a special photograph taken of this parade.

Guides Make Record Climb of Mt. Cavell

Swiss Reach Summit of Peak in Half a Day—Back Home by Evening

JASPER, Alta., June 29.—Setting a new record for the climbing of Mount Edith Cavell, which is over 11,000 feet in height, Heinrich Fuhrer and Hans Kohler, Swiss guides stationed at Jasper Park Lodge, on Sunday climbed to the peak of Mount Cavell and returned to their quarters at the Lodge before dark the same evening. The climb of Mount Cavell has previously taken most of two days to accomplish.

Leaving Jasper Park Lodge at 3 o'clock yesterday morning the guides motored to the end of the Cavell Highway and then crossed the glacier to begin their ascent from the south side. The peak was reached at 8:05 in the morning and the descent commenced at 9 o'clock, the climbers descending by the back passes. Packing their equipment back to the Lodge, the guides made the return journey and checked in at their quarters at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening, establishing a new record for the scaling of this difficult peak.

WINNIPEG, June 29.—The Canadian Authors' Association, at the closing session of the fifth annual convention here Saturday, decided to approach the Provincial governments to urge that prizes be offered for literary competition, as, it was said, is done in Quebec.

Officers were elected as follows: Professor W. T. Allison, Manitoba University, president; Watson Kirkconnell, Winnipeg, national secretary; Robert Watson, Winnipeg, national treasurer. Among the regional presidents named for the West was Mrs. A. de B. Shaw, Victoria.

At the luncheon Mr. Marshall spoke of the general trade outlook in Canada, the prospects of business this Summer, and particularly with regard to the representation of Canadian industry at the forthcoming South Seas Exhibition to be held in New Zealand at the end of this year. Today he will have a further opportunity to see something of local factories and plants.

A WOMAN'S SUFFERING

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Verdun, Montreal, Quebec.—"I am one of thousands who have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have great faith in it. I can safely say it has relieved my troubles and I shall never be without a bottle of it in my house. Since my last baby was born I suffered from pains and backache and would feel so tired I could not do anything in my home. Since I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine I feel so different. I recommend it to all my friends and hope it will cure other women who are suffering from the troubles I had."—Mrs. Thomas H. Gardner, 821 Evelyn Street, Verdun, Montreal, Quebec.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for the new mother. It is prepared from roots and herbs, contains no harmful drugs and can be taken by the nursing mother.

Its worth in restoring the mother to normal health and strength is told again and again in just such letters as Mrs. Gardner writes.

A recent canvass of women users of the Vegetable Compound shows that 98 out of every 100 women taking the medicine are benefited by it. They write and tell us so. Such evidence entitles us to call it a dependable medicine for women. It is for sale by druggists everywhere. C

One Killed, Two Hurt by Maniac

Foreigner Runs Amok at Port Arthur—Slays Railwayman With Iron Bar

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 29.—One man is dead, two are seriously injured and in hospital here, and a fourth is held at the central police station on a charge of murder as the result of a madman's attack on employees of the signal tower of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways diamond at Port Arthur early this morning.

The dead man is William Morgan, a signal operator at the tower, while Robert McManus, another operator, and John Call, a Canadian National policeman, are in hospital.

Joe, alias Andrew Antoniuk, a foreigner, is held by police as the alleged assailant of the railway employees. No motive can be assigned for the attack other than temporary insanity.

Shortly after midnight McManus, just relieved from duty by Morgan, had stepped out of the tower when Antoniuk ran up to him and attacked him with an iron bar. Hearing his cries for help, Morgan went to his comrade's rescue, and the madman turned his fury upon the newcomer. Staggering back to the tower, McManus telephoned for help. At this time Constable Gall arrived, finding Morgan on the ground prostrate and the foreigner battering him with the bar. Gall overpowered the man, but not before he was badly injured, and held him until more assistance arrived.

Two Badly Battered

Morgan was dead. McManus had his scalp almost cut to pieces by the blows from the bar, and Gall's face and head were a mass of blood. Part of his face was almost reduced to pulp and he may lose the sight of his eyes.

When city police and railway employees answered McManus' call for help it was necessary to beat Antoniuk into insensibility. Morgan's body was found lying in a two-foot ditch full of water beside the railway track. It is presumed he was carried there by Antoniuk and thrown into the water.

Says Laws Are Often Violated By Bad Traders

Mr. J. Ferguson Thinks Mounted Police Patrol Is Wanted in Finlay River Area to Protect Aborigines

Much Illicit Liquor Sold

That the Finlay Forks district in fact the whole valley of the Finlay and its tributaries, deserves adequate policing, preferably by a mounted police patrol, is the statement made by Mr. J. Ferguson, who has a trapping business thirty miles out of Fort Graham.

Mr. Ferguson, who is registered at the Dominion Hotel, says that there is a good deal of illicit trapping, of sale of alcohol, and intoxicating extracts by alleged independent traders to the aborigines, and of incitement to sabotage by itinerant traders of questionable character who come in from the East and South.

Some Offences

In support of his indictment, Mr. Ferguson explains the chief breach of the game regulations is in the taking of beaver before the open season, which chronologically comes at a period when the country is frozen up. The liquor is smuggled into the country by men of doubtful reputation, who, under cover of a little trading, supply the Indians with the opportunity for drunkenness, at extravagant prices, he states, citing instances which have come under his notice. In a case where one of his cabins was fired by an Indian, Mr. Ferguson was able to trace back the incitement to an outlaw white, and he says such incidents are not uncommon.

Value for Furs

As a fur trading country, Mr. Ferguson praises the valley, the cause of the attractiveness of the area to the questionable trader being that owing to the gradual depletion of the beaver in other parts of the Province, Indians from the Liard and other sections of the north and west have pushed into the country searching for pelts, and have become an attractive quarry for the exploiters. Not only is the area noted for its beaver, but moose and caribou are still plentiful, particularly along the northern tributaries of the Finlay.

Natural Resources

The agricultural sections are limited, but wonderful hay grows in the natural meadows near the river, he states, and all fruits and vegetables grow prolifically. In the agricultural industry, as with forest products, the isolation of the country has prevented anything but a local trade to develop.

The forests are chiefly spruce, balsam and lodge pole pine, the Douglas fir not being seen in that section. Lumbering is practically unknown, owing to the problem of transportation.

Mr. Ferguson declares there are some promising mineral prospects. He is personally interested in the development of a galena property on the Ingenika River, a tributary of the Finley, the deposit being available to face working with a steam shovel fourteen miles back from the river.

This "Donkey Well," one of the only two in existence in England, is in the village of Kensworth, near Dunstable. It is in daily use for supplying the farm water. Constructed about 1660, it is built entirely of oak, including the massive spindle, and the donkey is trained to use his weight walking around within the wheel.

Returned Man Noticed By Lady Byng During Tour of Rose Show

While strolling through the Rose Show yesterday afternoon, Her Excellency Lady Byng noticed a man with a returned soldier's button standing at one side of the hall. She immediately approached him and entered into conversation, in her few minutes' friendly chat learning the details of the man's service overseas and his present occupation. He proved to be Mr. King, who has been with the Flewin Nurseries for some years.

Germany Offers Market To Canadian Merchants

Possibilities of an increased trade between Germany and Canada were discussed yesterday by Mr. L. D. Wilgress, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Germany, who is in the city at present.

Mr. Wilgress declared that through the stabilization of the German currency a most profitable market had been opened to Canada. British Columbia apples and canned salmon, he said, could find a good market there.

In Germany, he stated, the average man worked fifty-six hours a week for a wage of only $12.

Court of Appeal Adjourns One Week

Present Sitting of Bench Will Be Formally Continued for Another Week

The Court of Appeal has not formally concluded its present sitting, but will assemble again next Monday. Chief Justice Macdonald, in announcing this adjournment yesterday morning, said that there were some motions to be received and several judgments that it was more or less important should be given as soon as possible, and hence the adjournment for a week, when the court would hand down decisions in some of them.

It is deemed possible that a judgment in the case of Rex vs. Boak may then be forthcoming. The order of the Supreme Court of Canada in this matter will likely be here very soon, in fact, it is expected any day. The Court of Appeal may therefore, acting upon it, have its judgment ready by next Monday.

Yesterday morning, in addition to the judgment in Rex vs. Vye, the court gave judgment as to costs of appeal in the case of Cox vs. Hogan.

Realty Case Gets Long Adjournment

An action connected with a land deal in the vicinity of Duncan was commenced in the Supreme Court yesterday. The plaintiff, Mr. F. A. Futcher, of Vancouver, seeks to recover as due him the sum of $2,618 from Mr. R. McLay. The transactions connected with the land date back as far as 1914.

The action is being tried before Mr. Justice Morrison, who heard evidence in the case up till early in the afternoon, when an adjournment was taken to a date to be set after the long vacation. The adjournment was made in order to allow the plaintiff to amend his statement of claim. Mr. C. E. Wilson appears for the plaintiff and Mr. C. F. Davie for the defendant.

Dr. Vye's Case Will Now Go to Supreme Court

Appeal Bench of Province Divided Evenly, Allowing Judgment at Trial to Stand —Case Goes to Ottawa

New Evidence Is Refused

The Court of Appeal of the province has confirmed the conviction of Dr. J. P. Vye. This is the decision handed down yesterday. An appeal will be taken from this decision to the Supreme Court of Canada by Mr. Stuart Henderson on behalf of Dr. Vye.

The matter came before the Court of Appeal on an application made to it that in view of new evidence that had been disclosed after the case had been argued in appeal there was ground for the quashing of the conviction or of ordering a new trial. On this new aspect of the case Chief Justice Macdonald held that the application made on Dr. Vye's behalf should be refused. He said he would hand down his reasons later.

Mr. Justice Martin felt that under the new powers given the court in such matters there was good reason for allowing a new trial so that an evident miscarriage of justice might be righted. Mr. Justice McPhillips, who on the original hearing of the appeal had dissented from the majority judgment of the court, holding that the trial judge was not justified in placing reliance upon the evidence of the principal witness, said he would have favored the quashing of the conviction but was agreeable to fall in line with Mr. Justice Martin and allow a new trial. Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald would refuse the application, as he felt the evidence that was produced, and which formed the basis for the application, was not shown to be admissible evidence.

Conviction Stands

The Chief Justice on the equal division of the court on the matter dismissed the motion, allowing the conviction to stand.

The case is one in which Dr. Vye was charged with having been engaged in an illegal operation. He was tried before Judge Lampman and found guilty, and sentenced to one year in jail. An appeal was taken to the Court of Appeal, when the court agreed with the judgment of the trial judge, and confirmed the conviction, with Mr. Justice McPhillips dissenting, contending that the evidence of the chief witness for the Crown was not to be relied upon as being irreconcilable with other parts of the evidence.

New evidence was discovered after the hearing supplied by an affidavit of Dr. Lachlan McMillan, which set out that this witness, while he was attending her, had contradicted a part of her evidence given at the trial. Mr. Henderson, on behalf of the accused, moved for leave to present this evidence, and supporting testimony that he said he could bring before the court.

The judgment of the court yesterday is the answer to this application.

Attacks Credibility

Mr. Justice Martin, in giving his judgment, pointed out that the amendment to the statutes had made fresh evidence admissible after the trial. This evidence that it was proposed to produce, and which was not objected to by the Crown, would materially shake the credibility of the principal witness. He pointed out that this was very material, in view of the fact that the trial judge had laid great stress upon the credibility that he placed on her evidence.

He had felt, therefore, when the matter of the affidavit was brought up that the court should have the girl before it to be examined. This was found impossible, as she could not be found. The natural inference was that she had gone outside the jurisdiction of the court. The court could not, he felt, close its eyes to a state of affairs revealed by the doctor's affidavit. There was an evident miscarriage of justice, and the court should not allow this to continue, as it clearly had the power to right it. It was the duty of the court to apply an appropriate remedy, and because a witness left the jurisdiction the court could not refuse to take action.

He was of the opinion that a new trial would afford the opportunity to right the matter, allowing the witness to come and give evidence if she desired.

Confirmed in Opinion

Mr. Justice McPhillips said that a study of the evidence in the first appeal, had led him to the conclusion that the girl's testimony was not to be credited. He pointed out that medical men in the discharge of their duty had often to place themselves in a position which was dangerous to their reputations. He had felt in this particular matter that the evidence was highly improbable under the circumstances, and he had felt that the trial judge should not have given credence to the evidence.

This new testimony that was now produced only confirmed him in his previous judgment. He felt that the conviction should be quashed, but the ends of justice might be served by a new trial, and would accordingly decide with Mr. Justice Martin.

Before concluding Mr. Justice McPhillips referred to the new amendment under which the court was allowed to consider new evidence. This had been introduced into the law, he felt, in order to relieve the Minister of Justice and the Governor-General-in-Council from the necessity of considering questions of clemency to the extent it had been practised in the past. It was the evident intention of Parliament to throw the whole matter into the hands of the courts to see there was no miscarriage of justice.

Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald felt that this evidence could only be admitted after it had been shown that it was permissible. He felt that the foundation for this had not been laid, and that, therefore, it could not be admitted.

Police Allege Fish Illegally Crated

Fresh complaints against Chinese violating the Provincial health regulations governing the keeping of fish in crates placed in the water pending the sale of them are to be aired in the Provincial police court today. Two charges have been laid and will be prosecuted by the Provincial police authorities.

One of the charges is laid against Ham Yuk, who is alleged to have been operating illegally off Ten-Mile Point. The other accuses Hing Lee of a similar offence at Oak Bay. The police allege that dead fish were found in some of the crates that were in use.

Forest Fires Are Under Control, but Situation Is Reported Dangerous

Reports from Vancouver declare that the fire situation on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland, although still hazardous, has been considerably relieved. All fires are now stated to be under control.

The more favorable reports are said to be due to the higher humidity prevailing over the week and to the fact that several logging camps have been shut down for the duration of the hot spell.

The Forestry Department points out, however, that so long as the present hot spell continues there will remain a definite hazard. Campers and others in the woods are again asked to take every precaution in putting out fires.

Predicts Victory for The Conservatives in Next Federal Election

That the victory of the Conservative party in the recent elections of Nova Scotia augers well for that party in the forthcoming general Federal election, is the statement made by the Rev. Joshua Hinchliffe, Conservative M.P.P. for Victoria, in a written statement issued yesterday. Mr. Hinchliffe said: "Premier Oliver in his published comment on the result of the Grand Forks-Greenwood by-election exactly expresses my opinions regarding the result of the election in Nova Scotia. I cannot do better than use the Premier's statement, changing the names and a few other words, so that the comment will be applicable to the Nova Scotia election: 'I am delighted with the verdict of the electors of Nova Scotia. It not only demonstrates that the people prefer the policies of the Conservatives to the policies and performance of the Liberals, but it adds to administrative security in that Province. It is never a good thing for a country to have a Government which lacks a clear working majority, and the alignment of the Legislature as a result of the victory is, I am sure, for the benefit of that Province as a whole. The verdict of the electors in this case is what I expected. The Conservatives elected are splendid types of men and they will be distinct acquisitions to the House.' That is my comment on the Nova Scotia election."

"Save the Label" Contest

The "Save-the-Label" contest staged by the B.C. Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade will close on July 16, when the awards of the grand prizes will be made.

Entries have been received from all corners of the Province and labels, stickers, tin cans, wrappers, receipts for British Columbia goods, have been pouring into the bureau office by the thousands. J. McDermott, of Vancouver, is now in the lead, with Mrs. W. Porter, of New Westminster, running a close second, while another lady from the little village of Donald is high on the list.

Over 5,000 people are now actively engaged in the contest; keen interest in the manufactured products of the Province has been aroused, and it is safe to say that the contest has demonstrated to many thousands of people outside of the actual contestants not only the great variety of goods turned out by their own neighbors, but that the standard of quality is equal to that of any foreign goods.

Gyros of City Entertain Two State Queens

American Legion Officials Congratulate Victoria on Its Excellent Pageant and "Hymn of Praise"

Club Greets H. B. Dawson

Victoria Gyros yesterday had the pleasure and privilege of entertaining Queen Faith, ruler over Victoria's Crystal Garden Carnival, and Queen Evelyn, "Miss Liberty," of Seattle, who were guests at the local service clubmen's luncheon at noon in the Chamber of Commerce. Their Majesties were given a rousing reception upon being introduced to the Victoria Gyros.

Mr. Frederick J. Wetterick, commander of Rainier Noble Post, American Legion, congratulated the citizens of Victoria upon their excellent choice of Miss Faith Robson as their Queen of the Carnival. He expressed the hope that Queen Faith and her Princesses would visit Seattle, and enable the Charmed Land to reciprocate the excellent hospitality that had been extended by British Columbia to Seattle's Queen and party.

Praises Ivanhoe Pageant

"I shall be very much disappointed if I hear that some people in Victoria will have failed to miss the excellent Ivanhoe pageant at the Willows Arena," said Mr. Wetterick. "It is really a wonderful achievement for a city this size to produce such a magnificent spectacle. In Seattle we figure we do wonders with our Wayfarer production, but Victoria has certainly opened my eyes with this noble pageant."

Mrs. Robert S. Macfarlane, wife of the chief deputy prosecuting attorney of King County, Washington, who is official chaperon of Queen Evelyn, was loud in her praise for the excellent reception and entertainment that had been extended by Victoria to Queen Evelyn and her Princesses. She complimented the people of Victoria upon their public-spiritedness in taking part in and attending the fine musical entertainment, "The Hymn of Praise," which was rendered on Sunday afternoon at the Arena.

Urges Salespeople to Smile

Mr. John P. Allan, chairman of the American Legion committee that is conducting a carnival week in Seattle, spoke on "Salesmanship." He said that the day of order-taking was gone, and that now prospective purchasers must be "sold." Salesmen and saleladies should smile all the time.

"Smiles count more in the selling game than anything else. People who sell things should observe the following three rules, namely, know themselves; know their customers, and know their merchandise," claimed Mr. Allan.

Mr. Harry B. Dawson, a new member of the Gyro Club of Victoria, was extended a hearty welcome by his fellow-members upon his initiation into the ranks of Gyro.

LORD BYNG'S VISIT

Their Excellencies Baron Byng and Lady Byng are visiting Victoria today and it is just possible that this will be their last visit here in their official capacities. Lord Byng has so endeared himself to the people during his term of office that the Government of Canada has stood prepared to ask for an extension of his term. The Governor-General, however, for personal reasons, cannot acquiesce, which means that he will leave the Dominion on the expiry of his term next Summer. Baron Byng came here with a reputation already established in the hearts of Canadians. He had led the Canadian Corps in France. He had commanded the Third Army there. He was personally known to thousands of those from this Dominion who fought overseas, and to know him is to realize his many sterling qualities. His very title is an association with the deeds of Canadians in the Great War, for he chose the great fight at Vimy Ridge to perpetuate it with his family name in the peerage.

Since his coming to this country he has performed his public duties in a manner which has met with the high approbation of all the people of Canada. He has been tactful to a degree. He has won not only the good will of the people, but he and Lady Byng have also become deservedly popular in a sense which has added prestige to Rideau Hall. No one more so than His Excellency has been at greater pains to learn at first hand about conditions in this country. He has traveled extensively throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion. He has made it his business to come into contact with Canadians in every walk of life. He has entered, so far as he may, into their business and pleasure. That is illustrated by the part he and Lady Byng are taking in making Victoria's Carnival a success during their brief visit. The presence of Their Excellencies will add to the popularity of the Carnival, and Victorians as a whole will take this opportunity, possibly their last, of showing their appreciation that a great soldier and a true diplomat is in office at Rideau Hall.

THE PAGEANT

Victorians, so far, have failed to appreciate as they should the extreme care and the lavish attention bestowed on the production of "The Return of Richard Coeur de Lion," which has been chosen as the Pageant for the present Carnival. It is noteworthy production, admirably staged, well worthy of a far greater patronage than has been accorded to it up to date. Major Tayler is to be commended on the manner in which he has assembled the characters. He deserves every congratulation on the finish and polish of the performance. The participants have thrown themselves heart and soul into the production and their energy and enthusiasm, to say nothing of their histrionic abilities, is well worthy of public support. There are some who already have described the Pageant as the outstanding feature of the Carnival Celebration. Perhaps they do not err, but at all events it is a part of the celebration which Victorians will honor themselves by seeing since it is locally conceived, locally produced, and a triumph for local talent.

ELECTION EXPENDITURES

The Federal Government is so far committed that it can hardly avoid a general election this year. It induced Parliament to make a grant to the Home Bank depositors, it secured a grant for the Quebec harbor, for the Toronto viaduct, for various elevators and harbors, and, indeed, expenditures are promised along so many lines that there can be no doubt that the object is to win votes. The Government, too, has engineered a split in the Progressive Party through which it hopes to make political gain. It has, moreover, by an assiduous press propaganda, endeavored to create the impression that it cannot be beaten in an appeal to the voters. Its endeavor to create a psychological attitude in this respect has, of course, received a cold douche since the results of the Nova Scotia elections were announced, but even these can hardly stay its course towards a Federal appeal to the people. In commenting on the possibilities, The Kingston Standard says:

> The Government is claiming that it will be re-elected; this claim is heard on every side, and is expected by the Liberals to have a psychological effect in their favor. They are also anticipating, apparently, that the split in the Progressive party will be to their advantage. But it may very well have the opposite effect. The people are not in the temper to take for granted everything the Government claims. They see the debt of the country being increased; they see the expenditure growing as if the country had not a national debt of nearly $3,500,000,000; they see industries being cut down for want of adequate protection; they see the pick of our population leaving to obtain work in the United States; they see such fool and costly schemes proposed as the Petersen contract; they see a horrible mess made of immigration; they see a Government with no strength or ability to have clear, definite and wise policies; in fact they see the most incapable, unbusinesslike, unwise and futile Government which this country has ever had. It is time for the people to put all partisanship on one side, and to examine for themselves the record of the Government which will ask for another lease of power.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

The price which Saanich strawberries secured on the Winnipeg market during the present season is being seized upon as a theme in favor of co-operative marketing. The strawberries of Gordon Head and Keatings netted over $4 per crate when sold on the Winnipeg market. During the same period, and due to unstable conditions, the market in Alberta furnished a price of from $3 to $3.85 per crate to the wholesale trade. In the Winnipeg market it is noted that American competition prevailed. In Calgary the competition was internal. The lesson to be derived is this, namely, that, if internal competition, due to uncontrolled consignment, was removed from the Alberta market, there is no reason why prices should not be better for Victoria strawberries in Calgary than in Winnipeg. Here is the moral pointed by Mr. J. A. Grant, the Markets Commissioner:

"We have had occasion every year during the past eight years to point out that the farmers were their own worse enemies; that want of unity and concentration in marketing lost them the right of selling their produce on a basis consistent with the cost of production. Adventurers amongst them, gambling on consignment as a means to give the individual a chance to escape legitimate distributing costs, have placed the fruit industry in a critical condition."

Then, Mr. Grant goes on to show by the following letter the conditions prevailing in Alberta and the hopelessness of a legitimate jobber, who has to meet prices set by consignment goods:

J. A. Grant, Esq.,
231 Eighth Avenue West,
Calgary, Alta.
Dear Sir:

We were wondering whether there is any way of improving the strawberry situation so far as this market is concerned. You, of course, know the prices we are paying on cars of strawberries and the prices we are paying on any we get here. This price we pay, however, is higher than L.C.L. berries are being sold at right straight along on this market. There is one house which apparently has a pretty good deal in B.C. This firm we understand has 150 cases of L.C.L. berries this morning alone. There is then a retail store getting in quite a quantity of L.C.L. stuff and their resale price is below our cost. We then have two or three new outfits operating on this market this year in addition to regular ones, who always get into business for the B.C. stuff, and their resale prices are all lower than our cost. We understand that there were 250 L.C.L. berries in town this morning to parties outside the associated houses.

The houses lined up with the associations are under contract to support the Co-operative and regular shippers in B.C. and are living up to their agreement, but we do not see how this thing can be successful unless the proposition is lined up better in B.C. Is it not possible to get more of these free lance shippers into the Co-operative out there? We have always claimed and we think you have agreed with us that the free lance shipper really does more to destroy the chance of getting good prices for fruit than any influence on the prairie does, and we think that this year, when there is a short crop, proves our statement conclsively. There is apparently no question about the scarcity of berries in B.C. and if all the berries there were handled through one source, practically any reasonable price that the shippers wanted could be obtained. With the conditions as they are, however, the regular jobbers are handling berries mostly at a loss and are naturally disgusted with the proposition and they cannot be expected to take very much interest in berries, unless conditions are quickly improved.

The Federal Government has decided to spend the trifling sum of $63,930 on a set of bells for the tower of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa. Those buildings have only cost $12,000,000 to date, and they are unfinished. The expenditure involved is one of the contributory causes to high taxation.

The good sense of Parliament prevailed when the Government Bill amending the Elections Act was being considered. The clause requiring newspapers to publish lists of their stockholders and the memberships of their working staffs was eliminated. The suspicious-minded who want to probe personalities to find the reason for motives have been again disappointed.

Engineer Drops Dead While Driving Train

TORONTO, June 29.—William McIntosh, 42, of Toronto, died at the throttle of his locomotive between Toronto and Sunnyside Station, three miles distant, last night. McIntosh was driving the Toronto-Hamilton local Canadian Pacific train. About halfway between the stations Duncan McKay, the fireman, saw the engineer double up on his seat and fall off, his hand releasing the throttle. McKay, with the engine still in motion, lifted the dead engineer to the fireman's seat and then drove the train into Sunnyside station. A doctor called there pronounced life extinct.

America's first navy department was composed of Silas Deane, John Langdon and Christopher Gadsen, all members of Continental Congress.

Notable Anniversaries

With the execution of Richard Parker on June 30, 1797, there closed one of the strangest and most unpleasant chapters in the history of the British navy. The mutinies of Spithead and The Nore were directly caused by abuses and neglect on the part of the naval authorities, though, of course, they were furthered and aggravated by designing men who hoped to reap some personal advantages. The outbreaks were preceded by efforts of the seamen to obtain relief by petitions and other reasonable methods. The men's pay and their prospective pensions from Greenwich Hospital had received no augmentation since the time of Charles II; prize money went almost wholly to the officers, and the captains and lieutenants often displayed much cruelty towards the men. Neglect of grievances finally goaded the sailors into mutiny, which in turn frightened the Government into taking the remedial steps it should have decided on without such pressure. The main trouble was settled, but Parker and other firebrands kept the men of The Nore fleet in a state of mutiny, and they went so far as to organize a "floating republic," with Parker as its president. Gradually the men realized that they had been led astray. They deserted their unworthy leader, took their ships back to duty, and finally handed over Parker and other ringleaders to the authorities. The latter prosecuted only a few of the most prominent, Parker's trial and execution in particular claiming public attention.

Tidy Up the Cemetery

Sir,—I supose vials of wrath will be poured out upon my head if I dare to say harsh things about the condition of Ross Bay Cemetery, so I will be as scathless in my remarks as possible and content myself by saying that (speaking generally) the cemetery is in a very, very untidy condition.

I believe efforts are being made by the City Council to improve the general appearance of the city's portion of the cemetery, this year, no doubt; that is, as far as funds are available. Some improvement work was done here last Winter, but not enough. Much more is necessary. I suppose a fair amount of money is being spent upon our parks and boulevards, enough to keep them neat and tidy, whilst God's acre is allowed to remain in a state of exceeding untidiness. The number of receptacles for dead flowers, etc., should be increased to say one for every water standpipe, and notices placed everywhere pointing them out and asking that they be used.

Of course, I do not suggest that all the work necessary to put the whole of the cemetery in a neat and trim condition should be undertaken by the city, but the City Council should and must be the acting spirit, and in some way work in with the various religious bodies owning sections or plots in the cemetery. The cemetery has been a commercial proposition and must have been a revenue producer for both the city and some of the religious bodies, for, as far as I can gather from official records, this land was secured at a nominal cost and the plots have been sold for cash, and some attention should be given to the neglected state of things in their respective areas.

The pioneers were wise, perhaps even more so than they knew, in choosing this picturesque spot as a resting place for the dead. It has been handed on to us. We can and should place upon it a fairer scene than ever fell from painter's brush, and so become co-workers with God.

Elocution Contest

Sir,—I am glad to learn from the letter of your correspondent, Mrs. Corby, in today's issue, that only the fourteen competitors in the Ladies' Open class were concerned in the protest against Professor Sedgewick's adjudication, and that the other fifty competitors in the other classes had nothing to do with it. The one man certainly would not wish to sign it, as he received a very generous mark, but the boys and girls were surely attended by parents or teachers, and I presume they could have joined the ladies in their protest, had they felt so inclined.

I had no opportunity to discuss my method of marking with anyone, even had I wished to do so, but I fear I inadvertently gave Major Bullock-Webster a quite wrong impression. It gave me great pleasure to discover that one of the best lady competitors was a pupil of the B.C. Dramatic School, and I was only too glad to congratulate Major Bullock-Webster on her work. She is very gifted, but it is only fair and generous to give full credit to her teacher. I believe I said: "I wish your pupil could have gained a medal, too, as I marked her work 100 per cent." I did not mean that I considered her finally the best. I have marked many hundreds and my method may be original. I mark very easily for a first hearing, merely to pick out those of outstanding merit. On this occasion I gave four competitors 100 per cent. Had I been the judge, I should have heard those four again, marking them much more severely, looking out for the slightest fault and giving no one full marks, in a final examination. I am glad I was not the judge, for in my anxiety to be fair to strangers, I might not have done full justice to the work of my own candidate.

My remark to Major Bullock-Webster was generously intended. I meant that that competitor was one of the best and in my judgment should have been in the finals. I should have remained silent and paid no tribute to her merit.

Mrs. Corby is, I think, misinformed as regards Miss Bisset Thom. She has not "had more than fifteen years' elocutionary training." She learned elocution under her father, who was, I believe, extremely gifted, until she was fourteen years of age; she then studied alone but not regularly, until she came to me three months ago. Miss Bisset-Thom has herself told me this. She is naturally very gifted but, in addition, she has worked with me for many, many hours in preparation for the British Columbia Festival. The interpretations of the two chosen pieces were mine. I was, therefore, much gratified when Dr. Sedgewick told me that Miss Bisset-Thom's interpretation gave him the greatest pleasure, because he could feel that a real knowledge of literature and poetry lay behind that interpretation.

Gives Useful Hints On Effective Show

Circular on Fall Exhibitions Contains Valuable Information on Practice of Display at Fairs

COURTENAY, June 29.—A circular by Mr. William J. Bonavia, secretary of the B. C. Fall Fairs Association, entitled "Judging Domestic Science and Women's Work, With Hints to Exhibitors," which has recently been issued, is prefaced with the following excerpt from an address by Dr. A. T. Morrow (Second Vice-President Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibitions) at the 1924 Convention held in Toronto:

> "It should be instilled into the exhibitors that the fair is not a place where they go to make money, but a place where they compare the qualities of their products to the benefit of themselves and neighbors and raise the standard of the products of our country, and that by the fact of proper preparation for an exhibit they themselves are the greatest beneficiaries, and that the premiums are only to assist in defraying their expenses."

In an accompanying letter to the secretary of the Comox Agricultural and Industrial Association, Mr. Bonavia points out that the circular is primarily intended as a guide for judges in connection with women's work at the Fall fairs. There is, however, much information and matter of interest for exhibitors and directors of an agricultural association such as the Comox Society. A perusal of the various standard score cards as used by the judges of the department for the judging of canned fruits, jam, jellies, etc., for the baking of bread, pies and for needlework will doubtless be of much value to all intending competitors at the 1925 exhibition in Courtenay, and should be of much help in assisting them to eradicate deficiences that may have been in evidence on previous occasions.

Women's Work

Mr. Bonavia points out that the increasing importance of all phases of women's work has been a feature of the Fall fairs for the last six years. Sections in the prize lists devoted to domestic science and sewing were formerly quite inconspicuous, whereas now such sections form an important part of every exhibition and rural fair and account for a substantial portion of the prize money paid out. The records of the Department show, with respect to judges, that the demand for lady judges has been on a steadily increasing scale, as will be shown from the following: Judges for domestic science and women's work—supplied by Agricultural Department, year 1919, 2; 1920, 4; 1921, 10; 1922, 12; 1923, 14; 1924, 16. The score cards, already referred to, have been in existence a number of years, having been originally drawn up by the Advisory Board of Women's Institutes in consultation with the Household Science Branch of Cornell University. These score cards have stood the test of time and are the standards used by the judges at the Fall Fair.

The circular also contains some excellent suggestions concerning children's competitions, and stresses the importance of advocating classes for real handicrafts, such as rug-making, basket-making and articles made of homespun.

Juvenile Classes

Concerning the juvenile classes, Mr. Bonavia thinks children should learn more about the trees and minerals, and a collection of leaves or trees, shrubs and vines native to British Columbia, pressed, mounted and named, would help along this line, as all these things are educative and help to instil a love of nature in a child's life. Several other suggestions are also contained in the following paragraphs:

The highest motive of an exhibitor should not merely be to obtain a prize, but to gain and give further knowledge.

(a) To learn and to teach both other exhibitors and an interested public. (b) To ascertain the standard she has attained. It is lamentable, yet unavoidable, that the winner of a first prize does not always set the highest standard. Competition tends to raise the standard in a community. (c) To learn something more. Good food, correctly and well prepared, not only economizes a housewife's time and labor, but promotes health and happiness in the home. The educational value derived is paramount. The judges sent out by the Department of Agriculture are instructed, when called upon, to give definite advice to exhibitors concerning: (a) The standard considered desirable; (b) wherein exhibits fall short; and (c) how to improve exhibits.

For those exhibitors who feel that they still may have something to learn in the arts of canning and preserving, it is suggested that they make application to this Department for a copy of Bulletin 83, entitled "Preservation of Food, Home Canning," or write to the Publications Branch, Ottawa, for Bulletin 93, "Preservation of Fruits and Vegetables for Home Use."

Brentwood Bay Crowns Its Queen at Dance

BRENTWOOD BAY, June 29.—Nearly 200 people attended the Coronation Dance held in the Institute Hall, Brentwood, on Wednesday evening, when Miss Gladys Guy was crowned queen. The hall was very prettily decorated with orange and white streamers and gaily colored balloons were hung from the ceiling. The throne was set upon the stage and the steps leading down were banked with flowers. Reeve Macnicol introduced the Queen and her two attendants, Princess Sheila and Princess Edith to the audience, after which he crowned the Queen. Little Sunshine Smith acted as flower girl and Jimmie Watt as page boy. Bouquets were then presented to the campaign managers, Mrs. W. Watt, Mrs. H. Kinnaird and Mrs. R. Smith. At the close of the coronation ceremony Reeve Macnicol led the Queen in the grand march.

Mesdames Hole and Haddon were in charge of the punch and lemonade stall. Messrs. J. Jarvis and R. Smith ran a game of chance. Supper was served buffet style in the dining-room, the table being very prettily decorated with sweet peas. The committee in charge were the Misses N. Hagon, H. Maber and E. McCotter and Mesdames Freeland, Guy, Bagley and White; Messrs. A. E. Hole and R. J. Freeland were in charge of the door receipts. Ozard's three-piece orchestra supplied the latest in dance music. Dancing was kept up until 2 a.m.

Miss Edna Butler has returned home after visiting relations in Duncan.

Ladies' Guild Holds Successful Fete

NANAIMO, June 29.—The Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Church held a most successful garden fete on the Rectory grounds Saturday afternoon and evening. The warm weather made business especially brisk at the ice cream counter, while those in charge of the tea urns found that the temperature did not interfere with their business. There was an excellent musical programme, including most of the city's leading talent, and from a social standpoint the event was noticeably smart. A substantial sum was realized. Mrs. Priestley, president of the Guild, with Mrs. Ryall and Mrs. Jepson, received the guests, and the conveners were: Ice cream, Mrs. Voitkevik; candy, Mrs. Fred Stearman; musical programme, Mrs. Frank Morgan and Mrs. Akenhead; afternoon tea, Mrs. Bell; aprons, Mrs. T. Attempt at Suicide.—We are informed that a married woman living in an adjacent district leaped down a well in the yard of her residence at 4 o'clock on Sunday morning last. She was rescued with great difficulty by her children, and several hours elapsed before she could be brought round. She was laboring under temporary insanity at the time of the attempt.

Full House Witnesses Second Performance Of Brilliant Pageant

An audience of some 3,500 people attended the pageant last night at the Arena. Great appreciation of the various brilliantly-staged episodes of the drama was shown by the vast crowd of spectators, who were especially enthusiastic over the second scene in which the tilting-at-arms takes place in the tourney presented before Prince John and Queen Eleanor. This showy episode, in which about a dozen mounted knights, with lances fluttering, proved, as on the first night, the most spectacular in an entertainment which is highly picturesque from start to finish. It will be repeated again tonight.

HISTORY DEPICTED IN CANADIAN GRAINS

How Leif Ericsson, the Norse explorer, approached and landed on the shores of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, in 1001 A.D., 491 years before Christopher Columbus discovered America, was depicted in Canadian grains and grasses at the Canadian Government Exhibit at the Minnesota State Fair Grounds in connection with the Norse American Centennial celebration. This Centennial was held to celebrate the arrival of the first party of Norwegian settlers who came to the North American Continent in 1825 on the sloop Restauration. The Canadian Government had an elaborate exhibit at this Centennial at which, in addition to the two pictures showing Leif Ericsson landing on the shores of Canada, a variety of products of the Dominion were displayed. The exhibit was prepared by the Exhibition Commission in Ottawa, and special workmen were sent to erect it. It was seen by nearly 100,000 people.

Lady Byng Opens Rose Show With Compliments for Victoria Climate

Her Excellency Makes Charming Address Before Inspecting the Display—Mr. H. R. Beaven Wins the Prize for the Best Rose in the Show

That Victoria should take full advantage of her superior climate and go in for rose culture on a big scale, was the trend of Lady Byng's animated little address delivered before the big audience gathered in the Crystal Garden yesterday afternoon for the formal opening by Her Excellency of the second annual show of the Oak Bay Amateur Rose Growers' Association.

"It gives me the greatest pleasure to come and open your rose show, particularly as I am myself a crazy gardener," began Lady Byng, whose initial statement immediately made her friends with all present. "The time has come in Canada when you should encourage horticulture as much as possible. I am sometimes told, in Ottawa, that Canada has no art. I always say that the people of the country have been too busy to go in for the frills. Gardening is one of the frills. But you seem to have time and the right climate for it here in Victoria," she added, urging all those present to heed the just-spoken appeal of the president, Judge Lampman, and join the Rose Growers' Association. It would make them all keen and inspire competition.

Government House Party

"There is always envy, hatred, and malice among gardeners—in a friendly way," Her Excellency concluded before declaring the exhibition open. Immediately after this ceremony she received at the hands of little Bunty Reid, the secretary's daughter, a basket of Ophelia roses.

Judge Lampman, who introduced Her Excellency, explained that the date set for the rose show was later than originally planned, so the roses had suffered somewhat from the heat.

With Lady Byng, who wore a smart tailored costume of navy faille with cherry-colored hat, were Mrs. Walter Nichol, patroness of the Rose Growers' Association, in cream French tricotine with mauve hat; Mrs. Montgomery, Miss Sandford, and Mr. H. J. S. Muskett accompanying the party from Government House.

Association Officers

Other officers of the Association present were the vice-patronesses, Lady Barnard, Mrs. R. P. Butchart, Mrs. H. R. Beaven and Mrs. Henry Croft; president, Judge Lampman; the committee, Messrs. H. R. Beaven, C. J. Prior, J. V. Scrivener, C. H. R. Slingsby, C. C. Tunnard and Dr. W. P. Walker; the honorary secretary, Mr. David Reid, to whom the president accorded special thanks in reviewing the work connected with the undertaking.

The judge of the rose exhibits was Mr. J. Fyfe-Smith, of Vancouver. Mrs. Croft, Mrs. Fyfe-Smith (Vancouver), and Mrs. A. H. MacNaill (Vancouver), judged the decorated tables.

The prize bloom of the show was a magnificent white bloom, "Mrs. Charles Lamplough," shown by Mr. H. R. Beaven. A close second was a "Hugh Dickson," a dark red rose shown by Dr. Walker.

The trade exhibits were a great attraction in the hall: A big table of nearly one hundred varieties of roses, shown by Layritz Nurseries; a smaller rose exhibit shown by Ohlson's; Brown's decorative exhibit, notable for the display of salmon-colored antirrhinums and some beautiful gloxinias; and Bland's display of sweet peas, twenty three varieties.

First Visit of Governor-General Here

cially opened the Oak Bay rose show at the Crystal Garden, organized by the Oak Bay Rose Growers' Association, evincing great interest in the exhibition, and speaking flatteringly of Victoria as a place in which to grow roses. Lady Byng afterwards visited the new art gallery in the Crystal Garden. In the evening the official dinner given by the Lieutenant-Governor took place at Government House, time not permitting the official party to attend the grand pageant at the Arena.

Among the interviews scheduled for this morning will be one granted to Dr. C. Wace with reference to the proposed solarium for crippled children at Mill Bay. At noon the Governor-General will address the Canadian Club at a luncheon to be given in his honor at the Empress Hotel.

In the afternoon Lady Byng will be the guest of the executive of the I. O. D. E. at the residence of Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Oak Bay. In the evening there will be a private dinner at Government House, to be followed by a ball.

Parade to Be Witnessed

Wednesday, Dominion Day, will be the people's day in respect to seeing the Governor-General of the Dominion, who, with Lady Byng, will view the big carnival parade, which commences at 2:30 in the afternoon, at Beacon Hill. From there Their Excellencies will return to Government House, where a garden party will be held from 4 to 6 p.m.

On Thursday the Governor-General has several appointments, and the visit will come to an end by the departure of Their Excellencies at night for Vancouver, where they will stay for several days.

The Viceregal party, which arrived at Vancouver yesterday morning from Prince Rupert by the Prince George, remained aboard until leaving for Victoria. His Excellency stayed three hours at Prince Rupert, making, amongst others, a call at the Great War Veterans' Association rooms. At Hazelton, Smithers and other points along the Skeena River the party was tendered informal receptions.

Declares Canada Today Needs Return of Regimental Spirit

Baron Byng of Vimy Tells Army and Navy Veterans That Ex-Service Men Are Paramount in His Thoughts—Inspects Local Veterans' Unit

"If Canada as a whole could only get the regimental spirit that prevailed during the days of the Great War, what a wonderful thing it would prove to be in this Dominion," declared Baron Byng of Vimy, Governor-General of Canada, in addressing officials of the Victoria unit of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association yesterday afternoon, in the club premises of the organization on Fort Street.

His Excellency said that he never had a speech to make in talking to ex-service men, but that veterans and their welfare were always paramount in his thought at all times.

"I am delighted to meet you, and I wish you all well," said Lord Byng. "I trust that you will always keep the old regimental spirit to the forefront. The regimental spirit in the days of warfare was a spirit for everything that was good," asserted His Excellency, adding "and this same regimental spirit today still signifies and is typical of everything that is for good."

The First Official Call of Visit

The visit to the quarters of the Army and Navy Veterans on Fort Street was the first official call that Lord Byng made in Victoria on his present tour. He was accompanied by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Nichol, who also evidenced keen interest in the activities of the members of the Army and Navy Veterans' unit.

The Governor-General and the Lieutenant-Governor were greeted upon their arrival at the Fort Street club premises by a guard of honor composed of members of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, men who participated in the Great War and previous campaigns in which the British Empire had engaged. Some of the men were young in years, others had reached the age of four score and ten, who welcomed the distinguished visitors, and who were inspected by Lord Byng.

In inspecting the Army and Navy Veterans, His Excellency spoke a few words with all the members, inquiring as to their history, and in which campaign they had taken part. He renewed friendships with a number of men whom he had met on former occasions, and gave a personal greeting and inspiring word to all that he spoke to.

Inspects Ladies' Auxiliary Members

The members of the Sea Cadets Band, which rendered music under the baton of Bandmaster Hodgkins, were also inspected by Lord Byng, as were members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Army and Navy Veterans.

The distinguished guests were escorted over the premises of the organization by Comrade George Gardiner, president; Comrade Seymour Rowlinson, past president; Comrade C. F. L. Money, secretary, and other officials, Lord Byng congratulating the veterans upon their commodious and comfortable club.

In telling briefly of the Army and Navy Veterans' body, President Gardiner said that the organization had been formed in 1866, and was created for the purpose of aiding the widows and orphans of war veterans, to assist in worthy benevolent work on behalf of the ex-service men, and to supply employment for veterans of the Great War, and other campaigns.

Duets, trios and solos made up the pleasing little concert.

School Board Meets—At a special meeting of the city school board yesterday tenders for repairs of plumbing at South Park School, electrical work at Oaklands School, and heating facilities at Victoria West School, were opened and referred to the grounds and building committee for consideration and report. It is the board's purpose to have these repairs effected during the present school vacation. The next meeting of the board will be held Wednesday, July 8.

All the merchants of the district are planning to make this the best picnic that the organization has ever conducted. Committees have been formed to care for transportation, finance, refreshments, sports and music. Mr. William Worth is getting his motor launch ready for that eventful day, and expects to transport hundreds of parents and children of the municipality to the scene of the picnic on July 22.

Buller's Circus Draws Large Crowd to Big Tent At Every Performance

For two more days the people of Victoria and district will have an opportunity of seeing the trained animals and features associated with R. W. Buller's dog and pony circus in the Crystal Garden grounds.

At this circus there is adequate variety to serve all tastes, with tight-wire walking, barrel jumping, clowns, performing animals and jazz music.

The animals go through their share of the performance with ease, Darwin Ryan, formerly with Barnum & Bailey's aggregation, is the chief clown. Acrobats, contortionists and other feature performers aid in securing a good drawing card.

Much time has been spent in training the animals, and from the reports received from those places where the circus has visited, there is no doubt the show should be supported by all classes throughout its appearance here.

The performances are twice daily, at 2 o'clock and 8 o'clock. Mr. Buller intimates that the attendance has been good, and business in his circus satisfactory.

HEART TROUBLE SHORTNESS OF BREATH

Mrs. Geo. E. Bowman, Morrisburg, Ont., writes: "I am writing you a few lines to let you know of my experience with Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Two years ago I became very poorly with my heart and nerves and whenever I took the least little bit of exercise my heart would start to jump and flutter. I could not walk up stairs without having to sit down and rest before I was half-way up, on account of my breath becoming so short.

"I commenced taking

and in no time I felt a great improvement, and can now heartily recommend them to all those who are troubled with any affection of the heart."

H. & N. Pills are for sale at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. (Advt.)

Baker Slander Action Settled

Suit Against Miss Rooke, Vancouver Girl, Withdrawn From Courts

J. S. Cowper Committed to Stand Trial on Similar Charge—Magistrate Raps Editor

VANCOUVER, June 29.—Settlement of the slander suit brought by F. L. Baker and Doreen Baker, his wife, against Monica Mason Rooke, was announced today by Mr. Baker. Following Magistrate J. A. Findlay's announcement of his decision to commit J. S. Cowper for trial on a criminal libel charge arising from references to allegations somewhat similar to those involved in the Rooke case, notice of such discontinuation was filed in Supreme Court late today.

No Knowledge of "Party"

Both these actions were the result of allegations in connection with the death of Janet Smith, nursemaid.

Mr. Baker, in a statement, said that he was prompted to discontinue because Miss Rooke had assured him that she had no knowledge of a "party" at his house the night preceding Janet Smith's death and because Magistrate Findlay's decision insured that the "party" issue was to be canvassed at the Cowper trial.

Cowper Committed

"You are not only throwing mud at Mr. Baker, but you are besmirching the name of the dead girl who is not here to defend herself," declared Magistrate J. A. Findlay this morning in ruling against Cowper's counsel putting into evidence statements alleged to have been made by Barbara Orford, at the preliminary hearing of Mr. Baker's libel charge against Cowper.

After hearing the evidence of John A. Norris and F. L. Baker, the former as to publication and the latter in denial of the truth of the alleged libellous statements, the magistrate directed that Cowper should be committed for trial, but allowed a remand until Thursday to enable Cowper to arrange bail.

Cross-Examination Stopped

Mr. Baker voluntarily submitted himself to cross-examination by Gordon S. Wismer, counsel for Cowper, but the cross-examination after proceeding for an hour was terminated by a ruling of the bench.

The ruling supported a protest from R. L. Maitland, who is associated with G. L. Fraser in prosecution of the charge, that Mr. Wismer was seeking to obtain from Mr. Baker a description of the interior of the Osler Avenue house where the tragedy occurred, in order to fortify Barbara Orford to withstand cross-examination.

"We say her statement was a myth," said Mr. Maitland. "Mr. Wismer may believe it was true, but in either case it is improper that before she is cross-examined my friend should give her the benefit of this description of the interior of the house."

House Party Denied

Meeting quotations from the Orford statement put to him by defence counsel, Mr. Baker flatly denied that General McRae or Jack Nichol had been in his house the night before the girl's body was found, that there had been any party that night, that he had ever taken Janet Smith motor riding alone, and that he had had improper relations with her, resulting in the nurse having become "in a certain condition."

Chats with your GAS man

From Generation to Generation

AMONG those served by this company today are the grandsons and granddaughters of the customers served years ago.

The gas business is part of the life blood of the community. It grows as the community grows, serving the same families year after year with the most efficient and cleanly fuel on earth.

Gas plants do not try business in one town, find the business poor, and then pull up stakes and move elsewhere.

Gas plants stick to communities through good times and bad times, rendering the best service possible and meeting their bills for labor and materials promptly.

To serve with satisfaction one generation of customers after another is one of the greatest rewards that can come to a business.

Lady Byng Expresses Preference for Roses Which Have Perfume

A preference for roses with a sweet perfume was shown by Lady Byng yesterday when she visited the Rose Show at the Crystal Garden. Invariably, it was noticed, she singled out those which had fragrance rather than those which had mere beauty. Her Excellency stopped in front of the Brown Nursery exhibit to comment on the beautiful display of salmon-colored snapdragon, masses of which were arranged in front of the two pillars which flanked the attractive trade exhibit.

Art Exhibition Visited By Lady Byng Yesterday; Much Interest Shown

Her Excellency Lady Byng spent about half an hour at the new art gallery in the Crystal Garden yesterday afternoon. Very graciously responding to the invitation given by Mrs. F. B. Pemberton, convener of the collection, Her Excellency stepped into the gallery after she had made a tour of the Rose Show, and showed animated interest in several notable paintings and objets d'art which caught her attention. She expressed herself as greatly surprised at the number of rare pictures which Victoria's private collectors were able to furnish for such a loan exhibition.

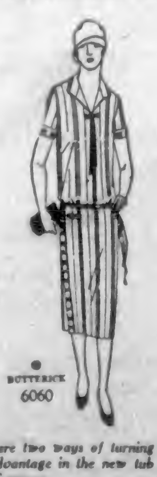
Fashions and Foibles

By Shirley Sharon



There are two ways of turning stripes to advantage in the new tub frocks for Summer.

A very smart, practical type of tub frock has come into vogue this season that is particularly nice for the woman who lives out of town. Straight little dresses that look narrow and yet are wide enough for household activities, marketing, a morning on the beach, etc., are made of the washable silk or cotton broadcloths or Shantungs, of crepe de Chine, cotton crepe, linen, etc. Stripes are especially smart used either lengthwise or crosswise in the frock itself and cut the other way for the bands at the side. The lower edge is straight, an excellent style for bordered wide flannel, plain linen or gingham.

Kumtuks Hold Last Lunch of Season

The last luncheon of the Kumtuks Club for the season was held yesterday. For the next two months the meetings will take the form of picnic suppers, the next one to be held at Mrs. Grute's houseboat on July 13, when further plans will be made in connection with the forthcoming garden party to be held in the grounds at Sefton College, permission for this being kindly granted by Miss Roberts.

Mrs. Lasenby again gave the club much pleasure in her beautiful rendering of two songs.

Major Okell was the speaker of the day, and gave an interesting account of the activities and usefulness of the Red Cross Shop, which was listened to most attentively. At a later date the club will avail itself of Major Okell's kind invitation to visit the shops in a body.

Mr. H. H. Hollins provided the laughter for the luncheon by giving two humorous recitations, which were greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. George H. Williams, Canadian Pacific Railway representative, agriculture and land settlement, of Winnipeg, was an out-of-town guest. The president, Miss M. A. Wigley, presided.

Her Wonderful Teeth

Remove the dingy film that's clouding yours and you'll be surprised that your teeth are just as white and charming as any one's—make this unique test.

HERE is a simple test that proves the truth that most of us have pretty teeth without ever knowing we have, or ever revealing it.

This is the reason:

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film. A film which absorbs discolorations and hides the natural color of your teeth.

Remove it and your teeth take on a new beauty. Maybe you have really beautiful teeth without realizing it.

Film is charged too with most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So, besides loss of tooth beauty, film is a serious danger to healthy teeth. You must remove and constantly combat it. It is ever present, ever forming.

Old-time dentifrices were unable to combat it successfully. And tooth troubles were a serious problem.

Now modern science has discovered a new way. A new-type tooth paste called Pepsodent that acts to curdle film, then harmlessly to remove it. No soap or chalk, no harsh grit dangerous to enamel.

Mail the coupon for a 10-day tube free. Or, buy a full size tube at any druggist's today. See what beauty lies beneath the film on your teeth.

The Broken Thread

By WILLIAM LE QUEUX

(Author of "The House of Whispers," "The Day of Temptation," Etc.)

THE STORY THUS FAR

"A barrier lies between us. We must never meet again after today—never." These strange words are spoken by Gilda Tempest, a girl whom Ralfe Remington has met by accident at Southport, where he is staying with his friend, Edward Mutimer. Shortly afterwards Ralfe is summoned urgently to his home, which has been entered by an armed burglar, who has shot and killed his father, Sir Henry Remington. The old man has, however, shot the burglar before passing away, and also mentioned to the old butler, Edgson, that there is a secret he ought to have communicated to his son. Ralfe connects this secret with the dead burglar, and determines to solve the mystery. On the burglar's body Ralfe discovers a strange pendant which he slips into his pocket. Looking over his father's papers, he finds a letter from George Mountjoy, an intimate friend of Sir Henry, that refers to some secret peril which concerns himself. A few months later Ralfe learns that Gilda Tempest, with whom he has fallen in love, is staying at a certain hotel in Nice. He goes there, but she repels him when he tries to speak to her. That night a note is given to him asking him to follow the bearer. It is from Gilda, who, when they have renewed their friendship, asks him if he saw the body of his father's murderer. He shows her the pendant, and she asks him if she may have it. Ralfe gives it to her. Gilda, who is evidently under the influence of her uncle, Dr. Malsano, obtains Ralfe's keys by means of a ruse, and the doctor takes wax impressions of them. Through Lady Remington, Malsano obtains an introduction to the Baroness von Besenitz, who possesses some priceless jewels. Soon after, he recognizes a famous Scotland Yard detective in the hotel, and leaves Nice immediately, leaving Gilda to follow him. Gilda goes to Bordighera, but here she sees Ralfe and his mother.

CHAPTER XI

The Tragedy of a Fateful Joy Ride

When Doctor Malsano and Gilda Tempest had so mysteriously and suddenly disappeared from the Hotel Royal, at Nice, Ralfe Remington received a note on the following morning. It was a characteristic note, and quite unsatisfactory. It merely served to add to the state of his mental perturbation. He could not, and would not, believe aught that was ill of the beautiful girl whom he loved with all the fire of his strong nature.

The note ran: "My uncle and I have been called away on business suddenly. Will you present our regrets and apologies to Lady Remington?"

Cold, terse, and quite inexplicable. It did not state where they had gone, or whether they would return. This extraordinary creature, who fascinated him, had left his life again as strangely as she had entered into it. The circumstances were difficult to explain to his mother. Her inherited training left more to be desired in such matters than was offered here by this strange young woman and her mysterious uncle. Lady Remington spoke with maternal austerity to her son.

"It all seems very strange. They seem to come from nowhere, and with an even greater rapidity they return nowhere. The Doctor, Doctor Malsano, I mean, is very interesting sometimes when he talks. At other times that curious eye of his does not inspire confidence. Miss Tempest is a beautiful girl, my dear, but are you sure she is the right kind of a girl for a Remington to associate with?"

Ralfe stammered. "Yes, mother. Gilda, I mean Miss Tempest—is quite all right. She, or he, will write and explain later."

Lady Remington continued. "I think I was rather premature in introducing them to the Baroness."

"That was all right, mother. We shall hear soon, and all will be explained," replied the son. At heart he felt little more than his mother that all was right, and he was wondering very hard as to what was the meaning of these renewed mysteries.

To change the subject, and gain an excuse for time, he added, "By the bye, shall we spend a few days at Bordighera, that dear, quiet little place, before returning to Aldborough?"

His mother readily concurred, feeling it would be good to change the scene of action for a while.

Then she added, "Yes, I expect there's a good deal for you to do still, at Aldborough."

• • • • • •

The Count's car pulled up in front of the door of the quaint little house in the side street, on the evening of the day when Fortune seemed to have snatched Gilda Tempest from the jaws of danger.

She had dressed with an assumed jauntiness, hoping to match the costume of the benign and buxom landlady, who had so generously extended the invitation.

Before the party was comfortably seated, a small basket containing light refreshment and some flasks of Chianti were placed aboard. Then the car started on its journey. Gilda, with a tact that came from the training of many emergencies, easily persuaded the chauffeur, who was already charmed by his fair passenger, to take the road up the Roya Valley to the French frontier, thence along the broad, straight military road with the snow clad Alps, already lilac tinted, to the Col di Tenda. As they were gaily speeding, with merry laughter, a figure sprang from the roadside and waved to them. The road here was deserted, save for the Count's car with its merry freight. The chauffeur applied brakes and rapidly stopped. Gilda shuddered, and hid her face as well as possible, for the wayfarer who had adopted this drastic means of attracting attention to his needs on the wayside, was none other than the ex-messenger of the Hotel Royal at Nice. Here was that forbidding person, with the air of an Apache, and the costume of the Quartier Latin, the man who had acted as her uncle's agent in the criminal plots that he was evolving during their stay there.

With the rapidity of thought and action that came to her of the hunted, haunted life, Gilda obscured her face, and became engrossed in some quickly planned operation that kept her from the man's view. He spoke Italian, but with a French accent. He first asked the way to the Col di Tenda. Then, as Gilda's landlady smiled at him, he emboldened himself to ask for a lift. The cheery old landlord and landlady cried, "Yes! jump in." Both were slightly flushed with the wine and contents of the basket they had brought with them. Gilda, as she realised that this horrible person was actually sitting in the tonneau of the car behind her, almost shrieked with fear. The landlord poured out more wine and the merriment soon bordered on excess, as the car bounded upward and swung around corners with a reckless, devilish swing. Gilda, trembling, yet with the well-feigned assumption of one of those mysterious ailments familiar to women who want to be left alone, waved aside the offers of wine; but the chauffeur appeared to enjoy it. With one hand on the wheel, he drank copiously as each glass was handed to him with a merry camaraderie. Now and then a lunge or jolt made even the merrymakers behind exclaim, "Oh!" The chauffeur seemed to want the fair occupant of the seat next to him to admire his deeds of "derring-do" at the wheel.

With a muffled roar they entered the long tunnel through the mountains. All but Gilda sang merrily as they bounded through the cavernous depths of this giant undertaking. On they sped with a recklessness that fascinated Gilda and, at last, alarmed the landlady. With a final plunge they were out again into the open. Gilda's mind was distracted in spite of the devilish excitement of this mad "joy-ride." How could she get rid of that hated Apache man seated behind? He was so near to her. Had he recognized her yet? She hoped, rather than felt, that he had not. She was thankful for the reckless exploits of the now thoroughly excited chauffeur. It distracted attention from her, and they were rapidly approaching the goal she had aimed for. Here and there the groups of Italian and French guards had eyed, with indulgent smiles, the mad career of this strange family party. Even Gilda's face was illumined with a wan smile, as she realized the incongruity of this scene. It was merry, in spite of the fact that it was fraught with such danger for her. A few more bends in the road on the steep side of the mountain, and they would be there, for good or evil, as destiny might decide.

"Oh! la-la!" cheerily shouted the landlord. "One more glass of the good wine." He poured it out. The chauffeur gazed in front with a bright, yet glassy stare, as he realized the dangers of the precipitous road. The landlady passed him a glass, laying her hand on his shoulder. He turned to take the glass. There was a sharp skid of the wheels that sounded like a hiss. A moment of lull, an eternity of despair, a loud, shrill shriek from the landlady—the car and its occupants had mounted a steep bank and lay overturned on its side. All was now silence, and Gilda did not know how long the silence had lasted. It was quite quiet when, with difficulty, she extricated herself from the twisted mass of debris. The other merry occupants remained silent, and the quiet of it was appalling. She muttered to herself and stifled her sobs, which were half groans. With much difficulty she clambered to the roadway. The sun had gone down, a golden ball of fire, set in a bank of purple cloud edged with a brilliant orange.

It was now dark, and a sense of oppression seemed to pervade the place.

Gilda's mind worked rapidly. The necessity for action was immediate. Where was that Apache man and had he survived?

The zealously guarded frontier road was not to be left long without a passer-by, and soon the measured tread of feet announced the approach of a patrol.

They halted when they discovered the ominous gash in the road, made by the swiftly swerving wheels of the now ruined car. An examination of the wreck disclosed the sadness of the disaster. Huddled in a group were the dead bodies of the landlord and lady and the chauffeur. Where was the Apache man? He was not to be found. Had he lived—escaped to remain an agent for evil in this world—a further or continued source of trouble to the sadly stricken girl?

The telephone was not far away, and the soldiers, who sympathized, with all the warmth of their Southern hearts, with the beautiful and distressed signorina, soon found means of escort for Gilda.

Thus she reached Cuneo, a further step on the long, lone journey to the unknown.

Chinese Girl Is Honored on Eve of Departure for China

On Thursday afternoon an interesting event took place in the Metropolitan Church, when members of different Women's Missionary Societies gathered at the invitation of the Metropolitan Auxiliary to bid farewell to Miss Sylver E. Lee, a young Chinese lady who is leaving shortly to take up missionary work in her own country.

The affair took the form of a silver tea, the proceeds going entirely towards Miss Lee's equipment, also some very useful gifts were made. Assisting on the programme were Mesdames Watt, Dowell and Styles-Sehl, with Mrs. G. Matthews as accompanist.

At the close of the programme, Mrs. Frank Adams, of Centennial W.M.S., read an address from the Women's Missionary Societies, conveying to Miss Lee their hearty good wishes and wishing her godspeed as she leaves to enter her new field of labor.

Mrs. Geo. Guy, of Wesley W.M.S., presented her with a beautiful bouquet of tea roses, to all of which Miss Lee fittingly replied.

After thanking the ladies, for their expressions of good will, Miss Lee said that she owed very much to the work of the W.M.S. She had been sold as a household slave to a Chinese family when a little child in China, and brought over to Toronto, where, till she was eight years old, she was very cruelly treated. Then just in time to save her life, she was rescued by a relative, Rev. John Lee, who was then on a visit to Canada. On his return to China he brought her to Victoria and placed her in the Oriental Home and School, 732 Cormorant Street, where she had lived for the past fifteen years.

Here she received her public school education and after a term in the Victoria High School, her life-long ambition to be a kindergarten teacher has been realized, for she has, during the past two years, taken a very thorough training under Miss Grace Baker, Mistress of Liberal Arts, who is a kindergarten teacher at the Oriental Home. Miss Lee referred to the far-reaching work of the W.M.S. at home and abroad, and paid a very high tribute to the influence and work of the Oriental Home in Victoria, which has been in every sense a Christian home to her and to many others. She spoke with loving regard of the various superintendents of the home during her stay there—Mrs. Snyder, Miss Smith (afterward Mrs. A. C. Wells), and Miss Martin, the present superintendent. She urged the ladies to continue their good work in sustaining such splendid institutions.

The afternoon's proceedings closed with the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Queen Faith of Victoria Receives Guests at Great Court Reception

Seven Queens Attended by Princesses and Ladies-in-Waiting Graciously Received Yesterday by Her Majesty in Ballroom of Empress Hotel

The Royal Court reception of Queen Faith of Victoria, held yesterday afternoon in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel, was one of the most brilliant affairs ever witnessed in this city.

A large assembly gathered to witness the welcome of the visiting queens. The regrettable absence of Queen Suzanne, of Portland, of the Queen of Bellingham, and of Queen Thyra, of Saanich, who were unable to arrive in the city in time for the levee, reduced the number of visiting royalties to seven, including the Queens of the Oriental courts.

The choice of color in the decorations was a happy one. At the back of the blue carpeted dais with its coroneted throne of blue hung luxuriant light royal blue curtains, which made a beautiful background for all the shining robes worn for the occasion.

Royal Entry

The entry of Queen Faith and the princesses was made with quiet and dignified ceremony, which was most impressive. Her Majesty was dazzlingly lovely in her robes, the purple train of which was borne by Princess Sara and Princess Audrey. She was preceded by two winsome little maids in crinoline gowns, who fluttered their fans and moved gracefully to the soft music of the orchestra playing under the leadership of Professor Lou Turner.

Mr. Fairbairn, to whom is due the credit for the designing of the royal robes, announced the entry of each queen. The first to be received by Queen Faith was Queen Liberty of Seattle, who wore an exquisite gown of green embroidered and beaded with gold, and carried a large bouquet of carnations and roses. She was followed by two attendant princesses.

Like the Queen of the May

Little Queen Kathleen, of Duncan, then appeared, looking like Queen o' the May with her crown of white flowers, and her dainty white dress with its sheer train borne by two attendants.

Queen Gladys, of Brentwood, wore a flowing gown of white, trimmed with white ostrich feathers, and a crown of golden leaves. She also was followed by two attendant princesses.

Each group was ushered into the room by the two little crinoline girls, who made low courtesies before the throne of Queen Faith, while Mr. Fairbairn made the introductions.

All the gorgeous panoply of medieval times was embodied in the group of courtiers led by Queen Eleanor of England and King Richard of the Lion Heart. Rowena, in jeweled robes of green and blue; Rebecca, darkly beautiful; Robin Hood, Ivanhoe, Isaac the Jew and Prince John, were of their train, and made a goodly show of color upon the dais.

Princess of Ispahan

Princess Irma of Ispahan, played by Mrs. P. E. Corby, was gorgeous in an Oriental gown of gold and blue, sewn with pearls, and a jewelled headdress with a high mount of feathers.

She was followed by nine attendants: the Misses E. Tenquerary, Jean Hemmings, Kathleen Johnston, Jean Cameron, Mary Langley, Trixie Lock, Betty Kingsbury, Gwendolyn Pontefax, Mabel Brown.

The Ranee of Kashmere, played by Miss Ethel Bale, wore a clinging costume of cream with flowing rose red draperies and a fan-like headdress of white plumes.

She was followed by eight attendants: the Misses Lorna Lewin, Isobel Turner, Florence Whitney, Catherine Fraser, Winifred Greenwood, Ruth Hemmings, Emmie Gilman, Marjorie Spencer.

Queen of the Fairies

Little Titania, Queen of the Fairies, and her diminutive consort, won all hearts upon their entry. Titania, little Valentine Harlock, was like a puff of dewy cloud in her dress of white spangled with silver, while King Oberon, little Miss Anna Byrom, of Vancouver, was splendidly regal in robes of gold and an imposing crown of many golden spikes. The Fairy King and Queen sat at either side of the blue-carpeted steps leading to the throne, and were surrounded by their sprites.

The names of the sprites were: the little Misses Wanda Spencer, Eve Tingley, Dorothy Pattullo, Dora Curtis, Grace Higham, Lillian Higham, Billy Sheldon-Williams, Jean Groos, Winnifred Ford.

Little Dancing Pupils

The small pupils of Miss Lillian Michaelis rendered prettily two dances, "Dance Chinoise," in which twelve little Chinese maidens cleverly fluttered their fans, and the "Dance of Spring," in which six of them took part.

Mr. Clifford Prescott sang with much feeling "The Festal Song," and the true touch of courtly grace was attained when Princess Audrey Bennett sang a charming selected song for the entertainment of Queen Faith and her guests.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of His Worship the Mayor, Dr. Clem Davies, campaign director of the queen contest, was requested to make an address in his stead.

Following the conclusion of the programme, afternoon tea was served in the hotel dining-room. The success of the entertainment is due to the strenuous efforts of Mrs. A. E. Humphries, Mrs. H. O. Austin and Mrs. Arthur Browne, the committee in charge, while the Oriental groups were arranged by Major L. Bullock-Webster of the B.C. Dramatic School.

Fancy Dress Party Is Held Before Change In House Management

Mrs. Simister, who for the past three years has conducted Beach House, Sidney, is discontinuing the business at the end of June, after which time Mr. and Mrs. Simister will be at home to their many friends and former patrons at "Seedley," their home on Third Street, Sidney.

A jolly fancy dress party was given at Beach House on Saturday evening to celebrate the "winding up." Beautiful costumes were worn by Mrs. Ballam, of Victoria, as "Cleopatra," and Mrs. Simister as "Queen Elizabeth," while Capt. Harrison was very well dressed as a French maid. One young lady cleverly sustained the character of a policeman, but perhaps the cleverest "get up" of all was Miss Margaret Simister, as a gold fish. Other costumes represented "Peter Pan," a white rabbit, Spanish senorite, jolly French sailor, Chinese laundryman, and messenger from Mars. Mr. Anstey was a charwoman and Mr. H. Byrnell a charming nurse.

Staff and Patients Of Jubilee Hospital Charmed by Visit

A royal visit was yesterday paid the Royal Jubilee Hospital when Dr. E. M. Pearse, medical superintendent, and Miss Jessie McKenzie, matron, received Queen Faith and her Princesses.

The patients and the staff were charmed by this novel visit, which was a gracious inspiration on the part of Her Majesty Queen Faith.

Audrey Griffin Wins Second Title At Crystal Garden Swimming Gala

200 Yards Canadian Open Ladies' Championship Won by Local Girl From Lois Murfin, of Portland, in Close Race—Biggest Crowd of Many Years

Audrey Griffin, Victoria's premier lady swimmer, won the 200-yard Canadian open championship last night at the second gala of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association at the Crystal Garden, held under the auspices of the June carnival committee. One of the largest crowds that has ever attended any aquatic sports in the Northwest were present and enthusiasm was kept up throughout.

One of the main features of the evening programme was the final of the life-saving competition for the Desborough Cup, which was won by H. H. Duggan and J. Parson, both of Vancouver, B.C., and members of the Royal Canadian Life-Saving Society, who beat in the final Percy Pitt and J. Wood, of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, in a close and highly exciting contest.

The first heat of the 200-yard Canadian championship had as competitors Daisy Prentice, of Vancouver; Gracie Wellburn, of Victoria; Agnes Spiedel, of Seattle; Lois Murfin, of Portland, and Dorothy Ireland, of Vancouver. In a close contest Lois Murfin won in the time of 3:50, with Agnes Spiedel second.

In the second heat Audrey Griffin was an easy winner over Rettie Tingley, of Vancouver, by about five seconds, in the time of 2:48, winning by about five yards after a twenty-yard spurt.

The final brought out as contestants Lois Murfin, A. Spiedel, Audrey Griffin and Rettie Tingley. The race was exceedingly close. All swimmers kept within a very short distance of one another when Miss Murfin and Audrey drew away. Audrey Griffin, Rettie Tingley and Lois Murfin keeping practically neck and neck.

Rettie Tingley was unable to keep up the pace set by the other two, and Audrey, who was swimming a strong race, won by two-fifths of a second from Lois Murfin, with Rettie Tingley about three yards behind, the time of the winner being 2:48. The race was undoubtedly one of the best ever seen in a swimming gala here, and excitement was at its highest pitch during its course.

The diving contest from the three-metre board was a very spectacular event. The dives were of a high class and the large crowd applauded each in his turn. Julian Burroughs, of Portland, by a close margin over Merlin Fadden, of Seattle, carried off the honors, while Max Hubbard, of Seattle, was third.

The 200-yard breast stroke Crystal Garden championship was won by Charlie Hills, of Vancouver, who is the present Canadian champion at the distance. S. Anderson, of Seattle, was second, with Bill Pedan, of the local Y.M.C.A., a close third. The time of the winner was 3:03 2-5.

The plunge for distance went to the old favorite, W. T. Barrett, of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, with a distance of 57 feet, 11⅛ inches, beating Spiedel, of Seattle, by 2⅛ inches.

The results were as follows:

Challenge Cup Won By Garrison Team

Final Rally Gives Gunners Victory by 7 to 5 Over Princess Pats in Indoor Baseball

A final rally in the seventh and eighth innings gave the Artillery Indoor Baseball nine a 7-5 victory over the Princess Patricias at Work Point last night in one of the hardest-fought games in the history of the Garrison Indoor League. As a result of their victory the Gunners will take possession of the Garrison Challenge Cup for one year. Last season this trophy was won by the P.P.C.L.I. in the regular league schedule, but this season at the conclusion of the regular league schedule the Artillery and the Princess Patricias were tied, and a play-off was necessary.

Going in first to bat, the losers scored twice in the initial innings, while their opponents retired in the three-up and three-out route. In the second stanza the Gunners crossed the home plate for one run, this being the only score. In the third the Princess Patricias duplicated their feat of the first innings, while their opponents retaliated with a lone counter. In the fifth the losers scored their last run of the game, bringing the score to 5-2 in their favor.

Lucky Seventh

It was in the lucky seventh when the eventual winners started the ball rolling, and crossed the home plate for a pair, making the score at this stage of the game 5-4. In the eighth the Gunners added three more runs to their credit, and reversed the score sheet to read 7-5 in their favor. In the ninth the losers made a good attempt to get on terms, but without avail.

S. M. Stevens and S. M. Wallace acted as umpires. The score by innings was as follows:

R.C.A.(C.A.) .... 011 000 32x—7
P.P.C.L.I. .... 202 010 000—5

Smith and Kirkwood Win Exhibition From Duncan and Mitchell

GLEN EAGLES, Scotland, June 29.—Macdonald Smith and Joe Kirkwood, United States professional golfers, defeated the British pair, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, two up and one to play, in a 36-hole match over the Gleneagles course today.

A gallery of several thousand Scots saw their national pastime played in masterly manner over the beautiful glens of this Highland resort. At the end of the morning round Smith and Kirkwood were two down. They were unable to get ahead until the 33rd hole, where both Duncan and Mitchell took three putts.

At the 35th hole Mitchell, for the first time during the day, failed to find the fairway with his powerful drive, hooking the ball into an unplayable position. Duncan's drive to this hole lodged under the low brow of the bunker. Both Smith and Kirkwood reached the green with their second, which neither of the other pair could do, and so they won the match.

Fish and Game Association Will Consider Open Seasons Problem

Special Meeting Called for Thursday of Next Week—Every Sportsman in City Invited to Be Present and Make Recommendations Unanimous

The Fish and Game Association of Victoria will hold a special meeting in the City Hall Council Chamber at 8 p.m. on Thursday, July 9, when the question of recommendations for open seasons on small game this year will be reopened.

At the last meeting held by the association for this purpose there was a very meagre attendance. Recommendations were drawn up, but as they did not meet the views of a great many sportsmen, who were not present at the meeting, petitions were drawn up asking the Game Board to frame other regulations than those recommended.

It has, therefore, been decided by the directors of the Fish and Game Association to reopen the question. A cordial invitation is issued to everybody interested in hunting to be present at the coming meeting in order that the real opinions of the majority may be obtained, and subsequent recommendations to the Government may carry as much weight as possible.

It is also asked that all those interested in fishing will be present, as there are several matters connected with that branch of sport which will be discussed.

It is hoped that by co-operation of all sportsmen of the Island and Mainland pressure may be brought to bear on the Government with the idea of getting a staff of game wardens who are not also to be called upon for ordinary police work. The sportsmen feel that game is such a valuable asset that it should be protected by an adequate staff of wardens who are specially qualified for this work, and a campaign is to be waged to bring this about.

Sons Tie With C.P.R. for Lead

Trim Eagles by Score of 21 to 4 in Last Night's Ball Game—Little Good Play

League Standing

	W.	L.	Pct.
Sons of Canada	5	2	.714
C. P. R.	5	2	.714
U. C. T.	3	3	.500
Eagles	0	6	.000

Last Night's Result

Sons, 21; Eagles, 4.

The Sons of Canada jumped on to an even footing with the C.P.R. for the leadership of the Senior Amateur Baseball League last night at the Royal Athletic Park, when they took the Eagles into camp by a score of 21 to 4. The game was a mediocre exhibition of ball, and the large crowd which attended was treated to very little fast play.

Jack Curtis, the pitcher of the Sons, celebrated his first win in senior ball. The support he was given was excellent, and only one error was chalked up against his teammates. Jack allowed only six hits, while he struck out seven. The birdmen started Baker on the mound, but in the fourth he tired, and was yanked in favor of Jack Stark at the beginning of the fifth. Eleven hits were gathered off him during four innings, while Stark was hit safely for eight in the same number. Stark made his first appearance on the mound this year, and retired seven with his fast curves. He was inclined to groove the ball a little too much, and he was hit freely in the pinches.

Miller Hits Them Hard

Ross Miller led the winners with the willow, getting four safeties out of six trips to the plate, including a three-bagger, two two-baggers and a single. Holman and Dunn picked off three hits out of five and six trips to the plate respectively. Potts and Turpie led the Eagles in the hitting column, the former getting two hits out of four trips to the rubber, while the latter hit safely twice out of four trips to the plate.

Seattle Soccer Team To Play in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, June 29.—For the first time in many seasons a Seattle soccer team will be seen in action on a Vancouver field when the Maple Leafs, of the Washington city, meet a representative local team here on Saturday afternoon.

Victoria and Vancouver Elevens Will Meet at Mt. Tolmie Tomorrow

Annual Intercity Cricket Match Will See Two Strong Teams Engaged—Mainlanders Bringing Over Well-Known Experts to Meet Best of the Island

All cricket enthusiasts are expected to put in an appearance at the University Grounds tomorrow for the annual intercity fixture. To those who are not such keen followers of the game the beauty of the grounds should appeal, and their interest can be assured if only to listen to the remarks of the initiated, humorous and otherwise, as the fortunes of the game fluctuate.

The kindness of the University School authorities in granting the free use of the ground is very much appreciated and can be shown by a good attendance. Needless to say, perhaps, a collection will be taken by a man deaf, dumb and blind as to coin values.

Reed Is Skipper

The Vancouver boys are to be captained by Tommy Reed, the imperturable, and one who knows the game from A to Z. Watch that stroke of his past extra cover. The wickets are guaranteed to be upset at every opportunity by Gerry Peel, who is never asleep, though he looks slow when keeping wicket, like his prototype, John Bull. In the team will be Broadfoot, a perfect terror to get rid of, as Wilkinson well knows; Eaton-Shore, that boy Rufus, who sure knows all about the game. Watch him at silly mid-on! Rivers is coming. That left hand of his can puzzle most men except perhaps Cobbett, when he is hitting against time, and among the eleven will be Geordie Thom. Eh, mon, but he is the lively boy, but plays cricket as keen as mustard. Ivamy, who bowls a nasty ball which comes off the pitch quick, and the others, whom we do not know quite so well, are backing the side to win with their best effort.

All in Form

Our men are in form. There is that lad of rubber, Wenman, than whom there is no better fielder, and who can bat and bowl as well. Sparks, Cobbett, Horsfall and Matthews should all test the boundary length. Wilkie has made his fingers sore practising twist. Watson, that bundle of springs, can be depended on to manage anything near the wickets. Cocks is like Broadfoot, hard to persuade that the pavilion is the best place for him. Gibson and Freeman can hit and bowl and field as well as the rest of them. For fear anyone should not recognize Gibson, it might be said confidentially that he has put on—well, a considerable amount. The genial doctor will umpire and a great game is assured, so all are asked to roll up to Mt. Tolmie and shout for the glorious old game.

Gen. Turner Asks For Veteran Unity

Says Unified Organization Will Enable Men to Get What They Need

OTTAWA, June 29.—"To me it is an appalling situation when men, who might have fought in the same platoon in France and who might have slept in the same dugout, are hardly on speaking terms because they belong to different soldier organizations, and I rejoice that we have at least something tangible on which to form a union of the different organizations," said Lieutenant-General Sir Richard Turner, V.C., president of the G. W. V. A., who was formally installed in office this afternoon.

General Turner stated that four organizations have expressed their readiness to join the mooted British Legion in Canada as soon as Field Marshal Haig presides at its inauguration.

"Field Marshal Haig," said Sir Richard, "will, in his trip through the West, pound this nail on the head at every stop and it will result in the formation of an organization which, being unified, will enable Canadian soldiers to get what they need."

Sportive Punches

Who said golf was a young man's game? How long ago was it that CHANDLER EGAN won his first championship? And his last was won last Saturday.

* * * * * *

And going a bit further afield, JIM BARNES is not in his first youth and TED RAY, who was only one stroke behind him in 72 holes medal play has a decidedly middle-aged appearance nowadays, judging from his published photographs.

* * * * * *

It's true BRAID failed to qualify, but wait till he gets a pair of "specs" to suit him and he's liable to win yet another "British open."

* * * * * *

It takes more than the beef and ambition of youth to win a golf championship, something which men acquire most of when the fire of youth has been modified by time.

* * * * * *

Jim Barnes owns up to 40. Apparently one is not "too old at 40" to win golf's highest honor.

* * * * * *

And this is what Mac Smith is cabled to have said on the subject: "I have played golf in many places, but I never experienced such a rabble as beat me at Prestwick. It was a disgrace. I never got a chance. I don't mind failing, but I didn't think a crowd at a golf meeting in Scotland would behave as that one did."

* * * * * *

How sore he must have been if he really said that!

* * * * * *

Some of these American stars must accustom themselves to large galleries. Britain is the land where they are found at their largest at all sporting events.

* * * * * *

After all boxing must be a much more dangerous game than baseball—to the fingers, although both games are played with gloves nowadays.

* * * * * *

It's an everyday occurrence for a boxer to plead a broken finger as an excuse for breaking an engagement (especially if it's an engagement he's not over-anxious to keep for reasons best known to himself), but here's a baseball player in the New York-Pennsylvania League who has been forced to idleness by an injured finger after playing 310 consecutive games with his team.

* * * * * *

It looks very much as though BABE RUTH was "through." His tendency to bulkiness seems to be getting the better of his ability as an athlete.

* * * * * *

The only thing probably which can keep him fit enough to carry on as a regular baseball star is enough regular exercise to keep down his avoirdupois, and that apparently he is not strong enough to stand after weeks spent in the hospital.

Canada Building Opened by King

Notable Gathering of More Than Four Hundred Marks Ceremony in London

Building Praised by His Majesty —Fitting Headquarters for Great Country

LONDON, June 29.—A radiant morning and a company representative of almost every phase of British and Canadian official life today awaited Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary for the opening by the King of the naw Canadian headquarters in Trafalgar Square.

Pramier Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin, Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Canadian Public Works, representing the Canadian Cabinet; the Earl and Countess of Oxford, Lloyd George and Mrs. Lloyd George, Ramsay MacDonald, Philip Snowden, former Chancellor of the Exchequer; Lord Haldane, Rudyerd Kipling, and Justice L. P. Duff, of the Canadian Supreme Court—these are merely soma of the 400 or 500 personages who thronged tha pillared hall and ground-floor space. Residents and visitors from Canada were there in full strength.

Members of the Grenadier Guards Band agreeably beguiled the tima of waiting.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who are spending the Summer on duty at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, acted as a guard of honor.

The Duke of Connaught, with Lady Patricia Ramsay (Princess Patricia), arrived some time before Their Majesties, and were cordially greeted by many Canadian acquaintances.

The great bronze doors of the Canadian Building, emblazoned with the maple leaf, were closed when the cheers of the crowd gathered in the vicinity by the thousands announced that the King and Queen were coming.

King Opens Building

Awaiting Their Majesties on the steps of the building were Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, and Septimus Warwick, the architect who had charge of the reconstruction of the old Union Club to the present fine Canadian Building. The architect handed the King the keys of the building, after which brief ceremony the doors swung back.

Immediately inside the threshold awaiting Their Majesties were Mrs. P. C. Larkin and Miss Aileen Larkin, daughter of the High Commissioner, who presented the Queen with a bouquet.

Their Majesties then passed through to the dais in the main room on the ground floor. Grouped around Their Majesties were the Duke of Connaught, Lady Patricia Ramsay, Countess Airlie, lady-in-waiting to the Queen; Major Reginald Seymour, equerry to the King, and Lieut.-Col L. C. Amery, the former Colonial Secretary, whose title now is Secretary of State for the Dominions.

King Remembers Canadian Tours

High Commissioner Larkin then read his address to the King, and the King replied as follows:

"You have referred to the visit of the Queen and myself, which has ever remained a delightful memory to us both, while I preserve happy recollections of other occasions when I had the good fortune to visit your country.

"You have spoken also of the association of the Duke of Connaught and other members of my house with the Dominion.

"Tha Queen and I remember with pride and gratification the warm welcome extended our eldest son in his visits to different parts of the Empire, and we realize that nowhere has that welcome been more friendly than in Canada, whose people took him to their hearts from the moment he first set foot on Canadian soil.

Building Commended

"The Queen and I are very glad to take part today in the ceremony here. Canada is a great country, alike in a literal sense of its vast extent from seas to seas, and great in its promise of achievement. It is right and necessary that its official representatives here should be housed in a manner worthy of the Dominion and adequate to the discharge of their ever-growing and important duties.

"I sincerely congratulate you upon the wise instinct which led to the choice of a site so well adapted to your needs, and also upon the admirable construction that has been effected."

Doctor Buys a Donkey Engine

The sale of a "Robert Bell" twenty-one-horsepower portable steam engine, to Dr. J. P. Vye, at the price of $600, on terms of $150 cash and balance $150 at the end of three, six and nine months, was authorized by the City Council last night, acting on a recommendation of the finance committee. The engine was purchased by the city in 1912 for $1,400.

Upon the recommendation of the finance committee, the City Treasurer was instructed to pay any City of Victoria debenture coupons, which are payable in sterling in London, presented at his office, at the Victoria banks' buying rate of exchange on the day of presentation.

Tha Council authorized a further payment of $500 to the Children's Aid Society on acount of the appropriation for 1925.

The request of H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, that he be given an extended vacation of at least six weeks, owing to circumstances in connection with his health was granted. During his six years' service with the city, Mr. Pringle has not had any very lengthy period of vacation.

The Council decided to recommend to the court that the Canada Trust tha firm of Brett & Ker, be appointed Company, represented in Victoria by trustee to handle the corpus of the D. A. N. Ogilvy Estate. A portion of the Council wished the official administrator to officiate as trustee and on the motion being put to a vote, the result was a tie, 4-4. Mayor Pendray voted in favor of the Canada Trust Company being appointed trustee.

to speak to the Foreign Trade Council convention in Seattle last week, and in the course of an interesting paper, said:

"Consumption of lumber will decline with the advance of culture and civilization. In Europe today it is only fifty feet per capita per annum, while in America we are still using lumber at the rate of 300 feet. We eventually will reach, though not quite, the low European level of consumption. In the meantime, new timber will be growing on our own logged-off lands and, where it will pay, timber will be produced as a cultivated crop.

"Therefore, when the question is asked: 'How long will it be before all our timber will be gone?' I have this answer: 'There never will be a time when the Pacific Northwest does not produce some timber.'

Nature Reseeds Cut-Over Land

"Nature has provided storehouses in the hills and canyons of the Northwest. These are now inaccessible because of lack of transportation and high cost. They are natural reserves until the more cheaply logged and accessible tracts are gone. Areas along the rivers were logged first. Then came the bench lands, and now the logging railroad opens up the first foothills. The price advances with advancing costs and, as it continues, so will the storehouses gradually yield their reserve.

"Meanwhile, some of our cut-over lands are reseeding naturally and need only fire protection to grow a commercial crop in from sixty to seventy-five years. The mountainous areas of the West Coast are peculiarly adapted for this purpose—this is a timbered country—and I predict that lumbering in one form or another will continue indefinitely."

Veterans Would Aid Migration

Ex-Service Men's Convention Discusses Land Settlement —Gathering at Ottawa

OTTAWA, June 29.—Appointment of a special committee of ex-service men of the Empire to further migration of British returned soldiers to the Dominions for settlement on the land was recommended to the British Empire Service League convention here today. The resolution was moved by Commander A. P. Hett and seconded by Major-General Sir Andrew Russel, of New Zealand. Discussion on the resolution is very general and will probably not conclude until this evening or tomorrow morning.

Major Dr. W. E. Sharpe, retiring president of the Great War Veterans' Association, addressed the convention, outlining Canada's need in the matter of immigration and promising every welcome to British ex-soldiers who were willing to settle on the land.

Prince Again Patron

The Prince of Wales was enthusiastically re-elected patron of the British Empire Service League at the opening of the league's meeting.

American Delegate Present

"You can no more have peace by wishing for it than you can change his re-election to the grand presidency, stated:

"Old comrades, I thank you for the honor you have done me in reelecting me grand president of the British Empire Service League. I want no thanks for anything I have been able to do. You can depend on me to continue to do my utmost Earl Haig, in acknowledging the ovation which greeted his return to the conference chamber following a tiger into a tomcat," said James F. Drain, commander of the American Legion, in a speech before the conference. Commander Drain was warmly greeted when he was formally introduced by Field Marshal Earl Haig as fraternal delegate to the conference. The common action of British and United States people, said the field marshal, would eventually spell the peace of the world.

Commander Drain extended the warmest greetings from the American Legion to the British Empire Service League, and to Canadians, "with whom we have so long lived in peace," he brought a special greeting.

Opening Spectacular

The parliament of ex-service men began this morning. With the mace of the Canadian House of Commons on the table and the Speaker of the House in the chair, returned soldier delegates from every part of the British Empire began their conference.

Premier King welcomed the delegates on behalf of Canada. Mr. Speaker Lemieux extended a welcome from the Canadian Parliament. In the absence of the Governor-General in the West, the Premier gave the conference Baron Byng's greeting and goodwill.

On the platform were Field Marshal and Lady Haig, the Speaker, the Premier, Chief Justice F. A. Anglin, Sir Robert Borden, Hon. Dr. H. S. Beland and James A. Drain, national commander American Legion. The big committee room of the Commons was filled with delegates and other Canadian ex-service men who are here for the convention.

At the conclusion of the opening formalities Col. T. S. Foster, chairman of the British Legion, was elected to the chair of the conference.

Twelve Dead, Millions Damage Is Done

"This was the one that did the damage. It just rocked back and forth, until the crunching and crashing sounds showed that the buildings were torn down."

Man Killed in Auto

Along the main thoroughfare, State Street, there were many automobiles and trucks which had been parked at the curb and which were almost buried under the debris. It was in one of these that William Matthews, a lather, was killed.

The finest building in town, the Marcos, a big four-story first-class structure, built as an "L" on a corner, had its whole corner centre pushed into the debris. Dr. James Angle, dentist, was killed in this crash.

Priest Calls Escape Miracle

Father Augusten, at the old Santa Barbara Missions told a thrilling story of what he declared to be a miraculous delivery. At the first tremor he went to the second-story room where Father Englebrecht, aged priest and author of histories of the Mission, was confined an invalid.

Lifting the invalid priest to his back, Father Augusten proceeded to the stairway when, with the second shock, he fell through a hole to the floor below with the invalid priest on his back. Neither was injured.

Ole Hensen, former mayor of Seattle, gave the following eye-witness account of the earthquake:

Like Million Dogs With Bone

"It was about 6:44 a.m. The air was sultry. Everything was very quiet. I noticed as I lay on my bed that quite a large wave dashed against the beach. The ground seemed to raise up with a crunch something like a million dogs crunching a bone. I leaped out of bed and tha floor seemed to rise up and hit me. I stepped again and it seemed as though I could not reach tha floor.

"Like all animals except the horse, in time of trouble, I dashed for the open air and began to bang on the neighboring bungalows to rouse occupants and get them out in the open park.

Hotel Collapses, All Escape

"Then I heard an explosion like a great fuse flame such as they use in movies at night. It lighted up the heavens and then flashed out. Right behind me I heard a rending. Two blocks away I saw the walls of the New California Hotel lean over gradually and collapse, leaving the occupants lying safely in bed, some covered and some uncovered. They all escaped.

"The ground rolled like a slight wave hitting a canoe. There was no excitement. Crash after crash came from the business district. The man sweeping the streets on the waterfront never quit sweeping. He shovelled and swept.

"We built a fire. The gas was gone so the bonfire sufficed. We cooked coffee and we ate our breakfast. A mile on both sides was practically destroyed."

Plans for the rebuilding of the devastated residential and business sections of the city are already under way.

Mansions Badly Damaged

Montecito, show place of millionaire country homes, was cracked by the 'quake and damage to a large number of mansions was done.

The George O. Knapp mansion was damaged to the extent of $25,000. The Frederick Peabody sustained $12,500 damage. The home of W. H. Cowles, of Spokane, was damaged to the extent of $10,000.

The Bliss' Place, Billings and Mitchell homes were more or less shaken up. No one was injured at Montecito.

Father Escapes, Son Killed

G. Allen Hancock, Los Angeles millionaire realty man, was injured in a fall of three stories at the Arlington Hotel. His son, Bertram B. Hancock, is believed to be dead.

The Hancocks were at the Arlington Hotel with J. R. Chapman, of Los Angeles. Their room crashed down three stories. Allan Hancock was plunged down with the wreckage, while Chapman, an employee of Hancock, was saved by stepping back to the wall. Bertram, 21 years old, a son of the millionaire, was in an adjoining room which plunged into the debris, burying his body with that of Mrs. Charles E. Perkins, the millionaire widow of the late railroad magnate.

G. Allan Hancock's injuries consisted of three broken ribs, broken collar bone, and cuts and bruises.

Police Rushed to Scene

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—Ten police detectives and fifty uniformed patrolmen of the traffic bureau were sent to Santa Barbara today by Chief of Police Lea Heath to participate in maintaining order and protect property in the Santa Barbara 'quake area.

Fifteen motorcycle officers were detailed to patrol the highway between here and Ventura to keep it clear of unnecessary traffic and especially to discourage sightseeing motorists.

Barbara La Marr And Tearle Here

Strong Cast and Lavish Production Mark "The Heart of a Siren" at Capitol

Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle are again seen together in "The Heart of a Siren," the Sawyer-Lubin production which First National opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

Miss La Marr, as a siren of the gayest of the gay spots of Europe—the Riviera—has a role perhaps better than that in which she played with Tearle in "The White Moth." Famous for her lavish costumes, she wears an array of the new Paris styles—negligees, day frocks and a splendor of evening gowns—which would captivate the fancy of any woman.

Tearle's role as a poor but aristocratic English diplomat also is admirably suited to him.

There are many highly dramatic scenes in which Miss La Marr and Tearle perhaps present the best acting of their screen careers.

Phil Rosen, who directed, has given the picture an unusually capable supporting cast. Harry Morey has a strong role as the American millionaire, who becomes a plaything of the siren; Clifton Webb, of musical comedy fame, has transferred his little moustache and mirth-making talents to the screen for this production, and others include Ida Darling, Florence Auer, William Ricciardi and Tammany Young.

The story is an adaptation from Florence Reed's stage success, "Hail and Farewell," Frederic and Fanny Hatton being responsible for the screen version.

Syd Chaplin Scores Hit at Columbia

Famous Comedian Presents "Charley's Aunt"—Registers Cold Knockout in Farce

How people in all parts of the world could laugh at the same farce time and again for three decades covering a period of thirty-three years was to us an unfathomable problem until we were given an opportunity last night to see that farce in its screen form with Syd Chaplin playing the title role.

Now we see it all and are of the opinion, moreover, that in its present form it will live twice thirty-three years. There is only one way to adequately express it—"Charley's Aunt" is a cold knockout. We have often heard audiences laugh boisterously at comedy features, but it was not until last night when Syd Chaplin put in an appearance at the Columbia that we had the privilege of hearing a huge audience grow unmistakably hysterical and the walls of a theatre fairly rock with laughter in justly earned appreciation. The roars of one spasm were still echoing loudly when the disturbed air was rent by a fresh bolt of thunderous laughter.

Dominion Theatre Will Inaugurate Policy for "Pay Night" Tuesdays

Inauguration of a new policy by the Dominion Theatre for Tuesday evenings each week will take place tonight. The manager of this popular Yates Street motion picture house announces that every Tuesday will be "pay night," and that every person who attends the Dominion on that evening will be presented with a sealed envelope containing a certain amount of money, and which he or she will retain.

It is anticipated this new feature of the Dominion Theatre's weekly programme will prove a big success, and that Tuesday evening will be an unusually big attraction for patrons of the theatre to attend the Dominion each week.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Back in slavery days in the United States the darkies used to gather in the evenings, and, sitting in a circle around a blazing bonfire, would sing their plaintive melodies, while those with nimble feet merrily pranced to the music of banjo and tambourine. That was in slavery days, but the idea persisted, with the result that this unique form of entertainment was continued even after emancipation, and the minstrel show of today was the result. At the Playhouse this week the "Georgia Minstrels" are being presented in one of the old-time darkie jubilees, and it is a coincidence that the attraction is being offered in conjunction with the filming of the big picture, "Abraham Lincoln," because Lincoln was the great emancipator of the slaves. The "Georgia Minstrels" might be played as a prologue to the picture or the picture as an introduction to the "Georgia Minstrels." But whichever way it is taken, the entire programme at the Playhouse this week is a consistent and cleverly arranged entertainment.

COLISEUM THEATRE "A Girl of the Limberlost," the Film Booking Office attraction at the Coliseum Theatre, is a picture that is an inspiring story of life worth while. Adapted from the novel by Gene Stratton Porter, it brings to the screen all the riches and beauty of this widely read out-of-doors romance. The scenes of the book made famous by the word painting of the authoress are now revealed on the screen, interwoven with a romance whose pathos and tender sentiment will make the picture as well remembered as the original book story.

City Disposes Of Large Issue Of Debentures

City Sells at 97.13, $525,000, 5% 20-Year Sinking Fund Debentures, Equivalent to Yield of 5.23.

Eleven Firms Tender

The City Council last night, at one of the shortest sessions on record, adopted the finance committee's recommendation and decided to accept the offer of Fry, Mills, Spence & Company and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, dated June 29, 1925, for the purchase at 97.13 and accrued interest of $525,000 five per cent 20-year sinking fund debentures of the city of Victoria, payable as to principal and interest in Canadian money at the Bank of Montreal, Victoria, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton or Vancouver, at the holder's option, Victoria settlement and delivery.

The finance committee advised the Council that the price of 97.13 is equivalent to a yield of 5.23 per cent. The last issue, in January of this year, realized a price of 95.57, or a yield of 5.37 per cent.

Eleven firms tendered upon the refunding bonds.

Festival Music Attracts Many

Nearly Four Thousand Hear Great Mendelssohn Music—Soloists and Choir Please

The tremendous interest taken in the performance of Mendelssohn's cantata, "Hymn of Praise," part of the Victoria Festival programme, was shown by the great audience which gathered at the Arena on Sunday afternoon to hear the work. More than four thousand people were present, their very multitude being an asset to the performance, as it provided the best conditions, acoustically, that have ever been furnished for a musical programme here. Not only the great choir, numbering nearly three hundred voices borrowed from all the choirs of the city, but the individual soloists, Miss Eva Hart, Mrs. Edward Parsons and Mr. McMillan Muir, were heard to supreme advantage, and the production will rank among the most memorable in the history of Victoria, both for its musical distinction and the great public enthusiasm which it aroused.

Great Southwest's Early Days Filmed

"The Light of Western Stars" Tells of Empire-Building Times in Sage Brush Country

"The Light of Western Stars," which made its initial appearance at the Dominion Theatre last night, combines the story-telling genius of Zane Grey, the directorial expertness of William K. Howard, and the acting of Jack Holt, Noah Beery and Billie Dove.

Mr. Grey, who knows the West as few other men know it and can write about it sympathetically and understandingly, has turned his attention in this adventurous romance-drama to the vast Southwest, the great range and desert country of Arizona, which for long remained the stamping ground of the cattle rustlers and bad men of the old West.

The essential flavor and spirit of the story has been captured by the scenarists, George C. Hull and Lucien Hubbard, so that the picture is a convincing portrayal of the picturesque life, habits and customs of those early empire-building days.

Jack Holt gives an excellent account of himself as the up-standing, square-shooting cowboy who loves to fight and fights to love. Noah Beery makes the outlaw chief he impersonates just as villainous and despicable as the character calls for. And Billie Dove invests her role with a naturalness and sincerity that makes her performance a memorable one.

Pictorially, the production leaves nothing to be desired, inasmuch as the actual location mentioned by the author were used as scenic backgrounds. The staging is all that it should be and reflects great credit upon William K. Howard, who lives up to the reputation he established with "The Thundering Herd."

walks in the stricken area, the tumbling of bricks and mortar as wreckers remove dangerous walls, and the hammers of builders rushing up temporary structures.

Throughout the residential districts, particularly in the East Side, the smaller frame houses in many cases were knocked askew by the temblor, some with fronts fallen out, chimneys and gables gone and yards flooded by the broken water mains.

Lawn room is almost at a premium, for Santa Barbara residents tonight are shunning the confinement of their walls. The shock was too recent and fresh in their minds.

Sea Violently Shaken

SEATTLE, June 29.—Passengers who arrived on the coastwise steamer H. F. Alexander here today from California ports told of violent disturbances at sea between the time earthquakes rocked Montana Saturday and the Santa Barbara tremors early this morning.

The ship rolled and tossed for hours and many of the passengers were seasick, said Bissett.

Pescawha Seizure Before Grand Jury

Members of Pescawha Indicted at Portland By Federal Grand Jury

Captain Robert Pamphlet, of Victoria, and Nineteen Others Indicted on Charge of Conspiracy to Violate U.S. Tariff Law—Victoria Liquor Carrier Seized Following Heroic Rescue of American Crew

PORTLAND, June 29.—Twenty men were indicted here today by a Federal grand jury in what is declared by officials to be one of the biggest alleged rum-running plots on the Pacific Coast.

Among the men indicted are Capt. Robert Pamphlet and crew of the Canadian schooner Pescawha, who last February rescued the crew of the sinking American lumber schooner Caoba. While saving the crew Capt. Pamphlet was arrested on the high seas by a revenue cutter. However, the government is not prosecuting the captain and his men for any possible violation of the United States laws at the time of saving the crew of the sinking Caoba, nor for alleged violations prior to that time. The men are indicted on charges of conspiracy to violate the tariff laws of 1922, in importing liquor contrary to law and also for alleged violations of the National Prohibition Act.

Others Implicated

The indicted men include, beside Captain Pamphlet, Jacob Woltte, Portland, who has two aliases and who is said to be the business head of the alleged ring; Frank M. Bates and Joseph Essex, Portland; and William Dunman Brunn, said to be skipper of the yacht Azalea, recently sold by the government here after its capture at Astoria by the government. Capt. Pamphlet has been at liberty under $5,000 bond since his arrest. Two other men, said to be important members of the alleged ring, are indicted as John Doe and Richard Roe.

Made Heroic Rescue

It will be remembered that the Victoria liquor carrier, which was formerly one of the old sealers that operated out of this port nearly twenty years ago, was seized within the twelve-mile limit after the vessel adventured inside the danger zone for rum-runners to rescue nine American sailors of the American lumber schooner Caoba, nearly six months ago. Editorial comment in Portland papers at the time was very strong against the seizure of the vessel by the United States coastguard cutter Algonquin. The valiant men had ventured into the danger zone to carry out a humanitarian and heroic deed only to be arrested as alleged rum-runners.

Kaga Maru Is Due From East Late Tonight

Delayed by Shanghai and Hong Kong Strikes, the Vessel Makes Up Time on Transpacific Run.

Has Heavy Cargo; Good Passenger List

With nearly two hundred tons of cargo for discharge here and a fair list of passengers, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Kaga Maru is expected to make William Head quarantine station at 8 o'clock tonight, and as soon as she secures pratique will berth at the Outer Wharf about 9:30 o'clock.

Delayed in the Orient by the strikes at Shanghai and Hong Kong, which have tied up transpacific shipping considerably, the Kaga Maru left Yokohama one day late, but has made up time on the voyage and is due here a few hours ahead of schedule. She is expected to reduce her speed record, as also is the Empress of Australia, due here this morning.

There are nine first class and nineteen steerage passengers for Victoria on the Kaga Maru, while for Seattle there are ten first class and six steerage passengers. The mail consignment amounts to 63 bags.

Fifteen Men Drown When Liner Tuscania Sinks Schooner Rex

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 29.—Fifteen men were drowned and nine other members of the crew of the fishing schooner Rex, of this port, rescued when the boat was sunk in collision with the Cunard-Anchor Line steamer Tuscania, 200 miles east of Halifax, yesterday.

Beyond the meagre message received by the ship's owners from the Anchor Line reporting the disaster, no word has come to amplify the details. The Tuscania, which struck the little fishing craft during a fog, reported herself standing by searching for possible survivors and bodies.

The master of the sunken vessel, Thomas Downey, of Lowell, was picked up dead. Officials of the Fred L. Davis Company, owners of the Rex, believed many of their ship's crew were killed below decks in their bunks, and that sailors stunned by crashing timbers drowned before they recovered consciousness. The Tuscania, which cleared Liverpool for New York June 22, was due to dock there today, but it is thought her arrival will be considerably delayed by the search she is making at the scene of the disaster.

The Rex sailed from Gloucester on June 17, and was returning laden with halibut at the time of the accident.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the drydock at low tide add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as given above.

Prize Distribution Is Held at Crosby School And Also Presentation

A pretty ceremony took place at Crosby School, Rockland Avenue, where Miss Gulland and staff and a number of little white-clad girls welcomed parents and friends to the fourth of their annual prize-giving festivities. Mrs. Schofield kindly consented to give away the prizes, which were numerous.

After the presentation of a lovely bouquet of sweet peas "from the girls," by Dallas Homer-Dixon, Mrs. Schofield made a most amusing little speech, touching lightly on the great importance of this much-abused rising generation in the scheme of life, forecasting a successful future for them.

Principal to Leave

Then Mrs. Schofield voiced the great regret felt by all the parents at Miss Gulland's decision to transfer her school to North Vancouver. The Bishop and herself, said Mrs. Schofield, were among Miss Gulland's most staunch supporters, having watched her work for many years. Victoria would be the loser of a sincere and keen educationalist, and everyone wished her a most prosperous career in her new sphere of activity.

Miss Gulland, in replying, said that it was not without serious thought that she had come to her decision of making this change. She wished to take this opportunity of thanking the parents for the appreciation and encouragement they had given her, and to remind the girls that she would always have the same love for and interest in them as she now had.

Mary McKay then presented Miss Gulland with a handsome handbag as a token of gratitude from the girls, after which a little programme of songs and recitations by the children was given. At the conclusion of the National Anthem the visitors inspected the kindergarten handwork, a most attractive display, for which Miss Wilson deserves great credit, and some dainty needlework, Miss Hamilton's department.

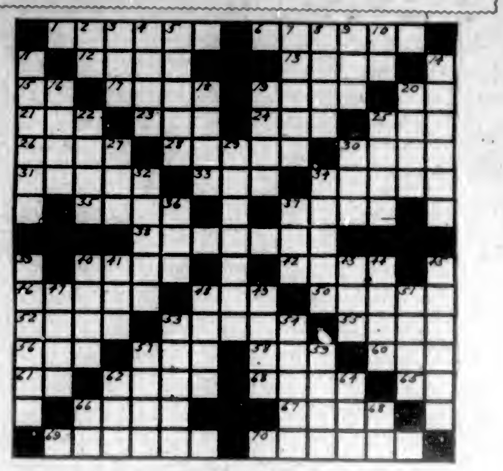
Colonist Crossword Puzzle



Crossword Puzzle 123

How to Solve the Puzzle

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may, of course, begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read, both horizontally and vertically, with words corresponding to the definitions.

Earth Shocks Upset Market

Prices Drop at New York When Tremors Shake West—Call Money Goes Higher

NEW YORK, June 29.—Selling, apparently inspired by the raising of call money rates to 6 per cent, the highest since December 31, 1923, and the uneasiness over the earthquake disaster, turned the course of prices downwards in today's market after an early period of irregularity. Net losses in the active issues ranged from fractions to five points.

Profit-taking was rather heavy in some of the recent favorites. American Can closed five points lower at 193, after selling as low as 191½.

The earthquake news caused extensive liquidation of the California oils, although nothing in the early dispatches indicated that their fields or other property had been damaged.

Individual Issues Strong

The decline was by no means general, independent strength being shown by a number of railroad, rubber, merchandising and motor shares.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent, advanced to 5, 5½ and thence to 6. The high call rates were generally regarded as temporary, there being no change in the rates on time funds and commercial paper.

Mixed movements took place in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held steady around $4.85¾. French francs broke nearly ten points to 4.51½c, within a couple of points of the year's low, and sympathetic recessions took place in the Belgian and Italian exchange.

Norse Money Strong

Scandinavian exchanges were strong. Danish kroner advanced 28 points to a new high record, just below 20 cents, and Norwegian kroner advanced 17 points to a new top at 17.64 cents. Swedish kroner touched par of 26.80 cents.

Unsettled by the hardening of money rates and a break in stock prices, the bond market turned reactionary. Price recessions were not severe, but fears that a rise in call loans to 6 per cent might portend a prolonged period of firmer money held buying interest at a low ebb and caused a general downward drift to set in.

Unfavorable News Forces Wheat Down

Lower Cables and Restricted Export Orders, Together With Good Outlook, Cut Prices

WINNIPEG, June 29.—Sharply lower cables, a small export business and continued favorable crop reports from both Canadian and United States areas had a depressing effect on the local wheat market here today. Early in the session prices ranged from 3¼ to 4⅛ lower, but recovered later from the extreme dip to close 3¼ lower at 160⅛ for July and 3⅝ down for October at 132⅛.

The December future trading opened today, the opening being at 130½ to 130 and the close 128⅝.

The buying power throughout the day was not of a character to sustain the bulges, and sentiment was very bearish.

The coarse grain markets all recorded drastic declines, and only a fair trade was reported.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Wheat: Liquidation continued today with a lack of aggressive buying. Several bulges occurred due to short covering, but these only brought increased pressure and were not maintained. Reports from the Northwest were favorable. Export demand only fair. Liverpool came better than due. No attention is being paid to bullish news. Some of the locals who have been bearish look upon the buying side on the breaks. Would only buy on the sharp breaks.

Corn and oats: Liquidation caught numerous stop orders. All corn futures selling below a dollar. Cash demand slow. Would be careful about selling corn short at present levels.

Winnipeg Grain Letter

(Supplied by R. P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, June 29.—Wheat: The market was very heavy today, both July and October showing heavy losses, but the nearby month made fair recovery near the close, final figures being 3 1-4 cents lower, while October closed 3 5-8 cents down, and not far from the bottom. With sharply lower cables, a small export business over the week-end, combined with bright sunshine and favorable weather, conditions over Spring wheat areas, both in Canada and the United States, created a bearish sentiment and long wheat was unloaded. The market had two or three reactions from the extreme dips, but the buying was not of a character to sustain the bulges. Several members of the exchange were out in the country at the week-end, and they one and all reported the crops as never having looked better, and that unless some extensive damage should occur between now and harvest, a bumper crop appears to be assured.

On the early break there was a little buying by millers and exporters, but the volume was small, the principal support coming from shorts who were evening up and taking profits. Trade volume was fairly large at times, locals buying July and selling October, with spread of buying October against sales of Chicago September and December. The Canadian visible shows a decrease of about 4,500,000, and that of the United States 1,998,000. The world's shipments for the week were 9,120,000 as against 9,956,000 last week. Liverpool cables came 3 1-4 pence lower and closed 1 7-8 to 3 pence down. The market has now had a good break, and while we believe the new crop futures will work somewhat lower, we would not press the short side of dips, but would wait for bulges when they occur.

Coarse Grains: These markets followed the trail of wheat and the July position on all commodities lost heavy. There was a fair trade in oats and barley on the break, the buying being credited to export business, but the weakness in wheat had its effect.

Flax: Very weak, with scattered selling that found a poor demand. The July declined 10 cents, but recovered partly, final figures being 7 1-4 cents down, while October was 1 1-8 cents lower.

Canada Bank Debits Show Slight Drop

Individual Accounts Lose Fraction in Year—Clearings Called Poor Business Barometer

OTTAWA, June 29.—Bank debits to individual accounts in the clearing house centres of Canada, as reported to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics by the Canadian Bankers' Association, were 7.36 per cent greater in May, 1925, than in the preceding month. As compared with the record of the corresponding month of last year, the debits were nearly maintained in May, 1925, the decline being less than one-half of one per cent.

The bureau adds: "The clearings for May were nearly five per cent in excess of the April record, but when adjusted for season tendencies, according to the experience with clearings during the last ten years, a decline of more than 5 per cent was indicated. The decline of six per cent, when the clearings of May last are compared with the record of May, 1924, indicates the unsatisfactory nature of clearings as a barometer of business conditions, for in this long term comparison, the decline of the debits was less than one-half of one per cent.
